No, komu budeš věřit mně nebo svým vlastním očím?
Chicolini (Chico Marx), ve filmu z roku 1933, Kachní polévka

V současných rasových vztazích existuje zvláštní paradox: čím více se vláda snaží dosáhnout rovnosti, tím více selhává a s narůstajícími neúspěchy přichází ještě více nátlaku k potlačování těch, kdo říkají pravdu. To nedává logický smysl. Koneckonců, umlčování skeptiků a překrucování reality mohlo být nutné v 50. a na počátku 60. let, kdy byl odpor vůči agendě občanských práv rozšířený, ale proč je dnes prosazování rasové rovnosti posvátné?

Pro tento paradox však existuje vysvětlení. Totiž navzdory všem bilionům a drakonickým právním opatřením k zavedení rasového inženýrství to selhalo. Situace se možná ještě zhoršila, nicméně bylo investováno příliš mnoho, než aby bylo možné uznat tuto porážku, takže represe a lhaní slouží jako alternativa k přiznání pravdy. Takže válčíme dál a jdeme od jedné katastrofy k druhé.

Umlčování rasových heretiků nebylo vždy normou. V polovině 50. let se kromě aktivistů za občanská práva jen málokdo staral o to, aby jižanské státní školy byly nuceny přijímat černochoy. Střet v Little Rock, AK o školní integraci v roce 1957, se například mohl stejně dobře odehrát na Marsu, pokud jde o většinu Američanů. S veřejností lhostejnou k tomuto rasovému inženýrství, proč lhát nebo zastrašovat pochybovače? Také je snadné ignorovat všechny našťvané sušenky. Bohužel, když bylo uvalováno jedno neúspěšné drakonické opatření za druhým a Washington (zejména federální soudci) tlak zdvojnásobil, selhání se brzy rozšířilo po celé zemi. Dnes však díky tisícům vládních programů a diktátů každý zná trapnou pravdu – nefungovalo to. Dokonce i horliví zastánci tohoto hledání to vidí v tom, jak vláda špatně řídila revitalizaci bezpočtu černošských měst, jako je Baltimore nebo Detroit, nebo jak zaostávala ve své hospodářské politice, aby odstranila černošskou chudobu nebo podpořila černošské bohatství, nebo jak jinak transformovala americkou společnost na rasovou. ráj. A díky desítkám zbytečných, masivně drahých vzdělávacích reforem, jako je Head Start a No Child Left Behind , si nyní miliony lidí uvědomují do značné míry neřešitelné intelektuální rozdíly mezi černými a bílými.

Sovětský svaz nabízí hrubou paralelu před jeho rozpadem. Abychom zkrátili dlouhý příběh, Sovětský svaz po revoluci v roce 1917 byl ekonomickou katastrofou po celá desetiletí po svém vzniku, po níž následovala celosvětová deprese, druhá světová válka a poté poválečný nedostatek. Až do 60. let 20. století propast mezi komunistickou ekonomikou a Západem, i když velká, nebyla gigantická, a co je kritické, Dělnický ráj byl, věrohodně, hned za rohem.

V 70. letech se však propast mezi Východem a Západem zvětšovala a slibované uzavření bylo pochybné. Sovětští občané zaplatili strašlivou lidskou cenu za komunistickou vládu, ale pravdu o katastrofách způsobených marxistickou ideologií nebylo možné skrýt. Cizinci v Moskvě nebo Leningradu nyní nabádali západní turisty, aby si koupili jejich použité džíny Levi, zatímco mnozí zahlédli prosperující Západ prostřednictvím televize nebo zahraničních filmů. Kontrast byl nyní nevyhnutelný.

Marxistická ekonomika selhala a žádné popírání nemohlo zakrýt realitu a téměř každý, včetně elit, to nyní věděl. Co tedy měla sovětská elita dělat? Opustit marxismus? Stěží. Postupně zavádět volné trhy? Nemyslitelné. Jedinou praktickou možností bylo zesílit vnitřní propagandu a utáhnout šrouby, což je politika uplatňovaná navzdory nepatrným možnostem ozbrojeného povstání. Přelud musel být udržován a za každou cenu.

Komedianti si museli rok předem s ministerstvem kultury vyjasnit všechny vtipy a improvizace byly absolutně zakázány. Nebylo povoleno nic, byť jen vágně antikomunistického. Jak se dalo očekávat, státem schválené vtipy nebyly vtipné a účinkujícím, kteří porušili stranický diktát, hrozilo, že budou vyhozeni nebo posláni do vězení .

Disidenti byli posláni na psychiatrická oddělení nebo odesláni do gulagů. Prominentní spisovatelé jako Alexandr Solženicyn byli zatčeni, zbaveni občanství a deportováni. Nejprodávanější produkty snadno dostupné na Západě, jako je Dr. Živago, byly propašovány a tajně distribuovány pouze důvěryhodným přátelům. Prominentní kritici byli usvědčeni v předváděcích procesech a bylo s nimi brutálně zacházeno. Opakuji, že rozdrčení disentu neodráželo žádnou skutečnou vnitřní hrozbu režimu. Tato drakonická opatření by nebyla nutná, kdyby bolševická revoluce v roce 1917 splnila sliby.

USA jsou jiné – spotřebitelské produkty jsou bohaté, levné a fungují tak, jak jsou inzerovány, ale existují paralely ve zvládnutí opakovaných masivních selhání politiky. Chybí nám političtí komisaři, ale univerzity mají byrokracii zaměřenou na diverzitu, inkluzi a spravedlnost. Stejně jako v Sovětském svazu je jazyk politicky důležitý, takže Amerika se nyní topí snahou očistit angličtinu od všeho, co by naznačovalo privilegia, hierarchii, zaujatost nebo vyloučení, takže říkat „otrok“ místo „zotročená osoba“ je trestný čin. Děti sovětské éry nadávaly na své rodiče, zatímco američtí studenti hlásili „nebezpečné“ profesory. Naše party aparátysídlí na ministerstvech lidských zdrojů, nikoli v Kremlu. Miliony lidí se nyní děsí páchání „mikroagresí“ proti černošům s tenkou pleť. Běda americkému komikovi, který si dělá legraci z intelektuálně nakažených černošských starostů.

Stejně jako ve starém Sovětském svazu jsou neúspěšné politiky a lži, které tyto fantazie doprovázejí, stěží uvěřitelné. Umět předstírat je nyní zásadní politickou dovedností. Věřil někdo, že vzdělávací reforma prezidenta Obamy Race to the Top změní děti z centra města, které neumí číst, na seriózní učence? Masmédia se „s programem dostanou“, ale realita stále prosakuje, když se nakonec objeví obrázek násilníka. Díky iPhonům a internetu mohou miliony svědků černého chaosu v McDonalds, výletních lodích nebo na letišti v Miami. Navzdory zastrašování a mlčení lidé vědí, že slogan „Rozmanitost je naše síla“ je asi stejně důvěryhodný jako „Dělníci světa, spojte se! Nemáš co ztratit kromě svých řetězů!"

Čerstvé neúspěchy skutečně jen inspirují ještě více neuvěřitelných „vysvětlení“ našeho rasového Velkého skoku vpřed a dokonce i ti, kteří sympatizují s křížovou výpravou, nyní přechovávají pochybnosti. Vzpomeňte si na „mezera důvěryhodnosti“ z dob války ve Vietnamu. Dnes tu máme rasovou verzi. Diskuse o rase jsou surrealistické: vše je rasistické, zatímco černošské nedostatky jsou chytře vysvětlovány neviditelným, všeprostopujícím „systémovým rasismem“. Jedna věc je vinit nedostatečně financované segregované školy za tristní výsledky, něco úplně jiného je připisovat černošskou negramotnost nevědomé zaujatosti černošských učitelů. Jak se rétorika odděluje od reality, agnosticismus nahrazuje víru a může se brzy stát ateismem.

Masivní afirmativní akce neustále odhaluje rasové rozdíly v intelektuálních schopnostech. To, co bylo dříve jen tušené, se nyní stává nepopiratelným. Bílí a asijsí vysokoškoláci se denně setkávají s akademicky bojujícími černošskými spolužáky, když navštěvují přednášky od neschopných černošských profesorů. Mezitím korporátní manažeři musí tolerovat, ale neodvažovat se propouštět černošské zaměstnance neschopné vykonávat práci navzdory všemu koučování, mentoringu a sníženým standardům.

Rasové rozdíly v IQ napříč všemi povoláními zaručují, že obyčejní Američané budou pravidelně uznávat, že „rozmanitost je naše síla, všichni jsme stejně schopní“ je naprostá lež. Charles Murray's Facing Reality (str. 76) katalogizuje obrovské rasové rozdíly v IQ napříč různými profesemi a černoši jsou vždy v průměru tím méně schopní.

Jsou to mimo jiné sekretářky, učitelé, domovníci, prodavači, zdravotní sestry, se kterými se musí setkat obyčejní Američané. Typický nakupující ve městě s černošskou populací vždy objeví tvrdou realitu vnucené rozmanitosti a začlenění, když jedná s černošskou prodavačkou, která si obvykle (ale ne vždy) vede ve srovnání se svými bílými protějšky špatně. Klienti, kteří jednají s černošskými profesionály, budou rovněž vystaveni nevýslovné pravdě.

Skončí někdy umlčování těch, kdo porušují rasové tabu? Můžeme se těšit z triumfu minulých vědeckých revolucí, například darwinovské evoluce nahrazující biblický kreacionismus? Je probuzené šílenství dalším bláznivým okamžikem jako realitní nebo tulipánové bubliny?

A co „moment Sputnik“, kdy se zřítí celá budova „Rozmanitost je naše síla“? K takovým transformačním momentům občas dochází, zejména při neočekávaných vojenských katastrofách, např.

Napoleonově porážce pruské armády v roce 1806. Možná, že dlouho očekávaný let United Airlines s černošskou pilotkou a druhým pilotem se po opuštění sanfranciského letiště dezorientuje a narazí do Golden Gate Bridge. Když je všude více než 500 mrtvých těl a most je pryč, výkřik může utichnout: „Dost“.

Alternativou může být Potěmkinova Amerika, kde elity vnucují všeobjímající svět fantazie, aby nahradil realitu viditelnou na vlastní oči. Umělá inteligence a virtuální realita navrhnu fiktivní Disneyworld absolutní rasové rovnosti. Nebo se „realita“ může stát televizními reklamami, nepravděpodobnými situačními komediami a probuzenými filmy, nerealistickým zobrazením černochoů v tištěných médiích a učebnicích K-12. Videá z bezpečnostních kamer s černou kriminalitou mohou být elektronicky „vybělena“ během románů. filmy a muzea jsou „dezinfikovány“ „nebezpečnými stereotypy“. Broadway zasáhla Hamilton je jen prvním krokem k „zabarvení“ americké historie. Každý konečně bude vědět, že černoši, zvláště černé ženy, jsou špičkoví vědci, díky denním dokumentům PBS NOVA. Pokud skutečnost nelze změnit, musí stačit její zobrazení.

Příběh vzestupu a pádu prohibice může nabídnout naději. „Suché“ hnutí se zpočátku zdálo politicky všemocné a bylo hluboce zakořeněno ve starší americké kultuře. Jeho moloch uzákonil 18. <sup>dodatek</sup>, což byl úspěch, který vyžadoval souhlas tří čtvrtin všech států. Přesto se po více než dekádě zhroutil z prostého důvodu, že nefungoval, a žádné obracení na víru zla Demon Rum nebo uvěznění pašeráků ho nemohlo zachránit. Politická hnutí mohou mít trvanlivost.

Současná mánie DIE může zmizet, pokud Amerika upadne do nepořádku třetího světa. Podniky infikované probuzením zkrachují a zanechají tisíce prázdných obchodů a nezaměstnaných pracovníků, letadla letectva havarují kvůli neschopným černým pilotům, zatímco stále příjemnější předměstská města se podobají Selmě v Alabamě. Ale bude to zlatý věk pro komedie díky hysterickým riffům o němých univerzitních administrátorech DIE. Přehrada se protrhne a kdysi nevyslovitelné exploduje do veřejného života.

Pamatujte, že sotva nějaký expert CIA nebo univerzity správně předpověděl náhlý zánik Sovětského svazu. Na rozdíl od lidí, kteří trpěli marxistickými lžemi a stáli dlouhé fronty na chatrný toaletní papír, mnoho amerických odborníků věřilo sovětským výmyslům. Pro tyto „experty“ by všichni ti komisaři a jejich bezpečnostní aparát vládli navždy. Odpůrci režimu, říkali vnější experti, byla jen banda špinavých disidentů vyzbrojených psacími stroji a několika skrytými kopírkami.

To, co vnější odborníci samozřejmě ignorovali, je krize víry a co se stane, když přesvědčení dovolující vládnout ortodoxii ztratí důvěryhodnost. Starý SSSR utrpěl ztrátu mandátu z nebe , abych použil čínský termín. nebo, řečeno jazykem Maxe Webera, ztráta legitimacy . Snaha o rasovou rovnost, přestože je současná oficiální ortodoxie a je podporována univerzitami a masmédií, stejně jako všechny systémy víry spočívající na fantazii, se stává zranitelnou vůči nevíře, a když víra zmizí, systém sám zmizí. Ti, kteří si zoufají nad současným šílenstvím, by se měli utěšovat vědomím, že všechny kdysi impozantní kosmologie nakonec spadnou do historického šrotu.

you had me at chicolini, i was trying to post a clip from animal crackers, with chicolini revealing abie the fishman but i couldn't find one as it is apparently too antisemitic (even on a yandex search). we all know how antisemetic the marx brothers were, (and marxists to boot).

This anti-ideology diatribe hoists itself by its own petard, as former realists used to say, since it substitutes imposed truisms for actualities that remain beyond its ken. We do not doubt the writer's sincerity, and given time ("sincerity is the root of all heroism") he would get there. However, there is in fact no time left, or very little:

We mean that Mr. Kay believes "race," for example, or "marxism," or "society" are simply facts and not themselves a product of previous manipulation of meaning or failures of comprehension, as famously conned by the Red Queen: "A word means anything I want it to mean!" This statement from Victorian times was no accident of literature!

War, for example, from late Roman times to the present proxy war against Russia—what could be more accepted as a well-understood phenomenon? Au contraire!

No, the most important realities that stand in front of our eyes after 6,000 years of discourse (race, money, space, time, even or most especially the Triune God himself and the hidden mechanisms of His emanative powers) are all still closed books for both pragmatic liberals and stubborn conservatives. There is a framework for their comprehension, to which the curious are invited:

By the 1970s, however, the gap between East and West was widening and the promised closing doubtful. Soviet citizens had paid a terrible human price for communist rule but the truth about the disasters imposed by Marxist ideology could not be hidden. Strangers in Moscow or Leningrad now badgered Western tourists to buy their used Levi jeans while many glimpsed the prosperous West via TV or foreign movies. The contrast was now inescapable.

Mebbe. I traveled the length and breadth of the USSR in 1970 and saw nothing like that.

Russia's problem is, and has always been, awful governance. Just abysmal. Stalin aside, Putin is the first Russian leader who is a competent manager. As we see with China, 'communist rule' does not bring privation. On the contrary.

| The Marxist economy had failed

Say, it's almost as if the Soviet Union was never the object of a worldwide economic boycott for 75 years, and did not go on to transform a feudal society into the world's second strongest power anyway. And wasn't hijacked by two tyrants, and wasn't manipulated by FDR to do most of the heavy lifting in his mad campaign to destroy Germany, in a war that didn't leave a quarter of the nation a smoking ruin. And Washington didn't constantly scheme to destabilize the government and the economy of the USSR and its allies, and there was never constant threat of nuclear annihilation – nah, communism just doubleplus ungood bad bad bad! Imagine the horror if we had here a system founded on “from each according to his ability, and to each according to his need” instead of the loving kindness of the holy Invisible Hand.

“Free men are never equal, and equal men are never free.”–

Kevin Alfred Strom

Nowhere, and at no time in history, have Whites and Negroes ever lived in harmony. “Diversity” is an idol that the Jews have placed before us.

Every multicultural, multiracial country self-destructs. We are well down this dark road in the USA.

The Jews understand this well. Israel is for them, and them alone. They are working to destroy our race through abortion, homosexuality, miscegenation, and of course immigration, in every formerly White nation.

Funny this article shows up. After watching a half hour of broadcast television from the controlled media, I was beginning to think that those happy and complete families of groids really do have car insurance and enjoy steaming mugs of hot cocoa with their children in front of the fireplace. Imagine the chutzpah it takes to think that by showing this warped version of reality, the average pale skinned couch potato is actually going to believe it?

What we are witnessing today is the ideological and societal failure of Russia-USA, and the triumph of the Third Reich.

Working together, Russia and the United States won WW2 militarily. They got their equality and free government shit. Now that the post-war piggy bank has been depleted, neither country can afford to pretend like their societies are functional or going anywhere. They are degenerating and shrinking.

This is the real 'clown world' you so often speak about.

And it causes extreme anxiety and impending feelings of doom for Russia-USA citizens, who know in their heart that the Nazis were right. So they fight the final, most treacherous war of them all: the war against reality itself.

And there are no lend-lease programs available for this war.

Charles Murray's Facing Reality (p. 76) catalogues enormous racial differences in IQ across multiple professions, and blacks are always, on average, the less able.

Murray's book is online, and I downloaded it to take a look at "p. 76". Before getting into that, let's examine page 75:

Universities do their best to hide what's going on. They refuse to reveal mean SAT scores by race, proclaiming that "everyone we admit can do the work." What they don't acknowledge is that the admitted African and Latin students, as groups, will be concentrated in the bottom of their classes – and that the people making the admissions decisions know it in advance.

Occasionally, sunlight penetrates the darkness. The biggest leak occurred in late February 1993, when Richard Herrnstein, a professor at Harvard and my coauthor on The Bell Curve, arrived at his office one morning to find that someone had anonymously left a copy of the "Red Book" on his desk. At that time, the Red Book was produced annually by the Consortium on Financing Higher Education, which consisted of 16 out of the top 20 universities and 5 of the top 10 small colleges as ranked by US News for 1993. It was the university equivalent of leaking a Top Secret CIA document. The Red Book contained the mean SAT scores by race for each of the schools.

The median edge given to African applicants at those elite schools was about 180 points on the combined SAT, equivalent to approximately 1.3 standard deviations at the time – a larger gap than separated Africans and Europeans in the general population. Someone with an SAT score 1.3 standard deviations below the mean is at the 10th percentile of the distribution at those colleges. We published the school-by-school information in The Bell Curve.

Nothing seems to have changed since then.

That last statement is bolded because something has definitely changed. On page 76 Murray now switches from IQ and SAT scores to something called "z-scores". Something ordinary people don't understand. Why would he do that?

Charles Murray may not be very honest, but he's certainly no dummy. If he stuck to the SAT scores and IQ scores his case basically evaporates into nothingness.

Rich students get better SAT scores—here's why

<https://www.cnbc.com/2019/10/03/rich-students-get-better-sat-scores-heres-why.html>

Rich parents can buy the best of “prep courses” for the tests. The very wealthy will hire individual coaches who probably have access to old tests. (and likely new ones as well).

Rich kids can take the tests repeatedly.

Rich parents can and will buy a doctor's declaration that their offspring has some kind of “handicap”. Handicapped students get “accommodations”.

The ACT and SAT offer many different types of accommodations, including:

- extended time
- testing over multiple days
- reading accommodation (assistive technology)
- frequent breaks
- scribe
- large-print booklet
- computer for the writing portion of the test
- alternate test formats such as braille, audio, or a reader

All of those methods are perfectly legal, but require the spending of quite a lot of money. Other solutions could involve hacking the SAT database to change scores, hiring a “ringer” to take the test for your kid. “High Tech” solutions during the test. A “Jeffrey Epstein” situation might involve bribery or blackmail to somebody in the Testing Organization.

No wonder Murray changed from SAT to “z-scores”.

IQ scores have the same basic issues. Practicing taking the tests improves scores – you're learning how the test-makers think. I wouldn't be surprised if a training program couldn't get national Mensa membership from their nominal 2% to 5 or 10 percent of the nation. Just as 90-pound weaklings can go to the gym and bulk up, many 110-IQ types might easily reach the 132 IQ requirement with a lot of practice test-taking and strategy-learning.

“Today, however, thanks to thousands of government programs and dictates, everybody knows the awkward truth—it didn’t work. ” Well maybe it DID work. Maybe what all can see is the desired result? I don’t think any group, even one as smug and arrogant as America’s “elites” can be delusional enough to not see the failures of their Social Engineering. Divide and Conquer seems to be the Elites objective. Change has to be demanded not hoped for.

“Diversity is Our Strength” is about as credible as “Workers of the world, unite! You have nothing to lose but your chains!”

It’s considerably less credible. ‘Workers of the world...’ is plausible — even works to some extent. Witness unions. The more ambitious extensions of the idea crash and burn, but...

‘Diversity is our strength’ is just obvious nonsense.

The US is different—consumer products are abundant, cheap and perform as advertised

This is ending.

For not quite a half-century, the US elite money crowd has had their assets literally lifted to the stars by wage-differentiation all over the world.

First products were under-priced by rising economic powers. Then they shifted their production facilities to cheap labor countries, first Indonesia, Malaysia; then on to Mexico and then China. They finally hit bottom. As China rises and Mexico builds a middle class, there's nowhere left to exploit the natives.

The easy money era for the Fat Cats is ending: Even what comes from China will become more expensive as the US (and even parts of Europe) descend into third world status. And Mexico will keep sending their rejects north because that was clearly the (unwritten) clause in NAFTA.

It was a fun ride for the few while it lasted, but at least recognize there were two separate types of “communism” and the so-called West got the one that falls a lot harder.

Let us remember that the objective of racism is the economic privilege that has allowed whites from a Europe poor in economic resources through crime and robbery to become the privileged race.

In ancient Europe, whites lived killing each other seeking to seize the little wealth, something very popularized by the movies about the Vikings. And so it was until the Indigenous Genocide during which hundreds of millions of indigenous people were murdered to steal their land and wealth.

One must also remember the role of the Roman Christian Church and Pope Alexander VI who gave his blessing to those crimes. It is an undeniable historical fact that it was the Christian Church who proposed the use of black slaves to enrich European whites.

jK: “... the more government struggles to achieve equality, the more it fails, and with mounting failures comes yet more coercion”

Well duh! But of course!

This “just” in:

Government “solutions” always fail.

There are no government [ie mandatorily coercive] , solutions to any problem in this world, including race relations.

Government coercion in the area of race relations is what has caused the race problems in the first place.

Therefore, the simple solution to the race relations problems created by government interference/coercion is to get it entirely out of racial matters. NOW!

The sooner people stop fantasizing about imagined government solutions for anything/everything, and wake up and understand that simple, plain as day, in their faces fact [government solutions never work] and act to get governments entirely out of their lives in every area [ including race matters], the better this world will be.

No Constitutional Authority:

And besides which: the US federal government has absolutely no constitutional authority to be involved in race relations in any way whatsoever.

A z-score is just a simply standardized score. Subtract the mean and divide by the standard deviation, to give the score an easy-to-read- scale. It is like switching between feet versus meters measures of length or Celcius versus Farenheit temperatures. My goodness it is perhaps the simplest concept one should know before thinking about test scores; it is taught in the first two or three classes in a basic statistics course. You need to read a statistics book (just the most introductory one that you can find).

‘The clash in Little Rock, AK [sic; AR] over school integration in 1957, for example, might as well transpired on Mars as far as most Americans were concerned.’ — Joseph Kay

Eisenhower sending federal troops to integrate Central High in Little Rock was national news. The Arkansas Gazette won a Pulitzer Prize for its coverage. In the wake of Brown v. Board of Education, the rest of the South understood that Little Rock was a pilot program. By the mid-1960s, most Southern schools were integrated.

Then, in de facto segregated northern cities, the underlying racial issue was transmuted into a school funding issue by New Jersey’s Abbott v Burke case in 1973. Half a century of indiscriminately dumping money into inner city schools, under the guise of school funding equalization, produced no measurable results.

Since discussing racial and ethnic differences is taboo, tribute schemes such as California’s crackpot slavery reparations continue to proliferate. Such feigned guilt-expiation payments serve the same function as pockmarking the US with ‘Holocaust’ museums and sending $4 billion annually of unmerited aid to rich Israel.

Because dialogue about Jewish supremacy and historical deceit is as forbidden as allusions to racial differences, we disfigure our culture ... and pay, and pay, and pay.

Two competing principles govern the allocation of seats to the provinces (Election Law art. 17, para. 1). The proportionality principle requires that each delegate represent the same population, while the broad-representation principle mandates “appropriate” representation for each region, ethnicity, and fangmian [方面] (an undefined term that has been translated as “sector” or “body of people”).

The People’s Congress is a 3,000-person review and legislative body in which, by law, all classes and interests must be fairly represented. This includes migrant workers, Taiwanese, the Military, capitalists, bureaucrats and returned overseas Chinese must be represented. 12% of seats are reserved for ethnic minorities. 5% of seats are allocated to the “super rich,” with former representative Jack Ma being a typical example. As we see from the arc of Jack’s career, his power is no greater than any other representative.

In real life, China’s wealth inequality and income inequality are below America’s and falling fast.

It is useless to argue with this people. They basically believe in their own propaganda. Being born in 60's I saw our standard of living improving steadily and population happy and virile until Gorbachev and his gang of anti communists and traitors took power in my country.

I would disagree only regarding Putin. The man is not good at anything but clinging to power and repeats same mistake by every single Russia or soviet leader. Staying too long in power. Russia has had two great leaders Lenin and Stalin and one who was competent but unfortunately came after Khrushchev destruction of Stalin working model and who simply did not have what it takes to restore it. I mean Brezhnev.

I am always amused at Westerners not knowing a thing about USSR, not living there and yet, seeing only what was going under Gorbachev as a proof of their illusions about Soviet Union and socialism. The most important thing is that they do not realize that under socialism criteria of success are different from those of capitalism. It is not profit or wide choice of consumer goods . It is human progress and society progress.

There is a peculiar paradox in contemporary race relations: the more government struggles to achieve equality, the more it fails, and with mounting failures comes yet more coercion to repress those who tell the truth. This makes little logical sense.

Great opening line. Perhaps an extended rewrite can bring us closer to understanding what we're really up against. Spoiler Alert! It goes beyond race, way beyond, in fact.

There is a cultural incoherence in contemporary human relations that has been building for ages. The source of that incoherence is the yawning gap between the reality we live in and the explanations we construct to understand and respond to that reality in a way that is satisfactory to us, but that we insist on calling "the truth."

The more we struggle to explain reality using these "truths" the more our explanations fail, because no explanation can ever be perfect and final, let alone "true", and with each failure comes yet more coercion to repress those who direct attention to this unpleasant fact. This makes logical sense. Since the human mind is literally insane and we're a biologically maladaptive species that is in no position to laugh at the dinosaurs for getting themselves extinct. After all, they lasted a lot longer than we have so far.

Of course contemporary explanations of race are insane!
Then again, so too are many of the objections to them.
Since they're both operating out of the same assumption that their respective explanations can save us all (or just them).
When all any explanation can do is help us to live in reality – for a time.

Fact: We have for example ads all over the place showing blacks banking. In 20 years I have yet to see more than one black man at my bank. 99% of the 12% are dead broke losers.

Fact: Hire the most qualified black man (whatever that means) or the least qualified black man and you have hired a whole packet of trouble.

Fact: Avoid all interaction with these people at all costs, whether at work or at play, or you will run up lifelong regrets !

Fact: Blacks can be equal among themselves but compared to other races ? Thats like comparing a 3 legged donkey to a born and bred Arabian. "Equality, therefore must be limited in its definition.

Do the children of the wealthy perform higher on standardized tests because of prep courses or is it because they usually are the spawn of two fairly intelligent parents who pay attention to them, look after their education and stay together? Poor Whites score higher than wealthy blacks. Is there a hidden fund somewhere that's paying for poor Whites to take prep courses? How many people of any color are spending time studying IQ tests?

Racial equality as the term is defined today can only be accomplished through a strict totalitarian government that punishes Whites. Even doing that you won't achieve equality because blacks are so destructive that even when you hand them money and benefits, their violence and dysfunctional behavior doesn't change and in fact gets even worse which has been proven over the last 60 years since the creation of the black American welfare state.

Laughable, if you are in fact talking about just North America. There's only hundreds of millions living in the US now. These people, contrary to what liberal professors teach their wide eyed idiots in colleges everywhere were not living in peace and harmony as one with nature. They slaughtered each other constantly and are lucky it was Whites that conquered them, or they'd all been eradicated.

I've always found it interesting to read history as to how it always seems that somehow only the conquering of native American's is viewed as some sort of special circumstance that can be labeled as real estate larceny. Makes one wonder of all the lands on every corner of the world, of all the nations that were born, overthrown, conquered literally hundreds of times, that somehow White Europeans conquering an obviously inferior population and in only 200 years after forming a nation turned it into the most wildly successful free states in world history IMO, of course. The shitbirds in control at the moment are probably going to get their way and reduce Whites to a minority in the US in the near future, the hilarity of that is all they'll accomplish is regressing America into a 3rd world toilet, run by despots and savages. In the end it'll probably be written in stone that the US was an apartheid regime that in the end like White South African's got what they deserved. I know many White libs riddled with guilt over duh slavery and racism, to which I've advised a 6 foot length of rope for relief.

| Poor Whites score higher than wealthy blacks.

Some interesting reading:

| These composite mental ages also conveniently covered up test results in which literate black draftees from a few northern states outscored white draftees from several southern states. Blacks draftees from New York, for instance, scored higher than white draftees from Mississippi, Louisiana, and Arkansas, while black draftees from Illinois could add Alabama and Kentucky to that list. Black conscripts from Ohio received even higher scores, bettering white draftees from all the previously mentioned states as well as Oklahoma, Texas and Tennessee (Yerkes, 1921, 690-91, tables 205, 206). Robert M. Yerkes, the director of the Army intelligence testing program tried to explain away disparate scores between northern and southern blacks by arguing that the more intelligent African Americans were clever enough to move to the North (Gould, 1981, 220). He never, however, offered any explanation for why these same northern blacks surpassed many southern whites on the exam.

| 18Interestingly, the discovery that large numbers of men could not take the alpha intelligence test designed for literate recruits revealed the failure of many black and white recruits to receive adequate schooling. Intelligence testers estimated that the illiteracy rate hovered around 21.5% of all white troops and 50.6% of all black troops ("Negro Personnel in the War", Malone). Sample testing classified 49.5% of South Carolina men illiterate compared to 16.6% of New York men (despite large numbers of alien soldiers in the region) and 14.2% of men from Minnesota (Foster).

People who can't read or are barely literate aren't going to do very well on an IQ test.

Soldiers who are mistreated by their racist commanders aren't going to perform very well.

Let us remember that the objective of racism is the economic privilege that has allowed whites from a Europe poor in economic resources through crime and robbery to become the privileged race.

Crime and robbery? What did Whites steal from blacks, their flying pyramids? Give me a break. Blacks were used for physical labor just like other farm animals. The only advances, if they actually exist, in black civilization were the result of colonialism and slavery which exposed blacks to White culture.

Unfortunately in the long run, that resulted in the black farm animals being introduced into White civilization and now roaming free, are destroying civilization and turning once safe prosperous cities into dangerous and dysfunctional dumps. Sadly, Whites are forced to constantly move, just trying to stay one jump ahead of the black farm animals in our own country to avoid being swallowed up by their savagery and barbarism.

| Would you argue scientific advancement is not closing any gaps?

Thanks for your response. Great question!

I would argue that science is the only way to close any gap between us and the world.

Obviously, this requires elaboration. But it's probably best to resist the temptation and let it go at that. Except to clarify what is meant by science in my response above.

Science is simply the most complete method we have for closing the gap between language and reality. And no known social group, no matter how simple or primitive, is without behavioral sequences in which experiment and explanation are placed in dialectical relation one to the other. Though there is no question that this mode of behavior is the most developed in the geographical areas of Western Europe and North America, ie; The West (The Land of Whiteness:).

The point I was making in my previous comment is that this mode of behavior is in violent opposition to the human addiction to Salvation Systems, ie; Explanations that claim to be perfect, final and true, whether religious or political ("violent" from the point of view of the believers in Salvation Systems).

That's why, just as religion attempted, for a time successfully, to control science, so too is politics now attempting, so far successfully, to control what is essentially the source of human adaptability. This impulse to crush the best method we have for living in reality is why I referred to the human mind as literally insane.

Unlike the USSR the USA is a truly federal country where people enjoy some sort of personal freedom, which means that that there will always be areas ruled by mostly sane, mostly not anti-white politicians where people can move.

At the same time sane people concentrate in red states, them leaving blue states will push those states further left as there will be fewer sane voters in those blue states to vote against the leftward drift. The number of Democrat run states will likely increase and the country as a whole will move to the left as the federal government supports bringing in large numbers of poor immigrants who will vote for Democrat candidates who promise them free stuff.

Democrat economic policies will cause a severe and lengthy economic contraction. This will result in steadily dropping federal tax revenues. At some point, the federal government won't be able to afford its expensive military and military spending will start dropping. It will then have increased difficulty projecting its power abroad and will draw back into this country. U.S. military bases around the world will shut down and we will go back to our traditional isolationist foreign policy.

Eventually the central government will even have trouble projecting its power to the states and states will start going their own way. The federal government can then respond in two different ways. It can try to stop it but that will fail and will lead to the breakup of the country. What I personally think will happen instead is that the federal government will accede to this inevitable process. We will then have a federalist system where most decisions will be made at the state or local level. We will end with an isolationist foreign policy and a federalist system at home, which is what we had to begin with. We should never have moved away from that and become an empire because empires always go into a decline in the end.

Nearly all the TV ads, as I understand it, are produced by Jews, whose never-ending goal is the annihilation of Western Civilization for holding a mirror to their disgusting moral depravity and inability to achieve anything on their own.

Have you heard the one about GPS being dependent on voodoo spells? Neither have I, yet being dependent on Einsteinian relativity—which he plagiarized in any case—is even less believable and yet it's now a part of every boob's miseducation in America. Because the Jews control virtually all the determinants of opinion in America, as well as the political forum, these lies have become as ingrained as breathing air.

The TV ads in particular create the image of a new world order of miscegenation where white males are replaced by Indians, Jews, Chinese, blacks, and Mexicans—especially portrayed as women to add to the grinning mockery of America's white males. Need investment or medical advice, ladies? Be sure to seek out anyone but a white male.

The point is, the aim of these ads obviously isn't selling some new drug, but instead, it's thinly veiled, ant-white brainwashing. The target audience is the deciding margin in Democratic electoral victories, ie, white women, who like all women instinctively submit to power.

As we see, white women in America now can't get enough of emasculating their own fathers, husbands, and brothers to signal their decision of submitting to their worst enemies in the hope they'll be given some slack when the shtf. The great irony is that no group will fare worse than America's white women when it does hit the fan.

Id rather hire and promote someone based on Skill, Intelligence & Talent ( SIT) ....rather than Diversity, Inclusion & Equity (DIE)

Towards that end, I can see the day when ambitious mid level management seeking to make great numbers will silently practicing SIT, while loudly proclaiming their ” amazing success” in implementing DIE.

That is, great Skill will be word-twisted and cataloged and recorded down as being “Diversity”.

That is, great Intelligence will be word-twisted and cataloged and recorded down as being “Inclusion”.

That is, great Talent will be word-twisted and cataloged and recorded down as being “Equity”.

Imagine two competing companies, for instance an airline company or construction company or any company that’s competing for market share. The game then becomes who can wisely practice SIT and convincingly enough label it as DIE. This company will WIN and GROW faster than all their competitors. I have no idea if this is true today, but I’m quite sure it will be true tomorrow. Perhaps Tesla is already a company winning at this great social game.

And for these reasons above, I do not see DIE dying out anytime soon. Indeed, the horns will blow the winds of DIE even harder, proclaiming its wisdom ever more.

What will this mean for Intelligence found in black and brown ethnic groups? It means these rare souls will be identified at ever younger ages, and groomi ng will start in kindergarten – wherever they are discovered on the planet.

Who knows, Barack Obama might have been such a child selected and groomed by the CIA deep-state itself. I understand that his white grandpa might have been CIA. Anyway, it stands to reason that we can expect many more to come.

For the rest of us, we better SIT or DIE.

| Which is to say our “insane” minds are as drawn to order as they are to chaos

In the first place, the rage for order is the source of the insanity.
Obviously!

| As for our being maladaptive...well, our sheer numbers refute that assertion.

In the second place, number is no argument in this case.

No matter how many of us there are the human race is still dependent on explanation for its survival. But we need not conclude that our explanatory behavior has survival value. It could only be known that it does not have survival value. And that could only be known when there are no human beings left to know it.

The point is this, if from the point of view of both the non-human world, and from nonverbal human behavior, verbal behavior is inappropriate, then human behavior is inappropriate, biologically maladaptive. And that very well may be. So it would help us to know as much as we can about explanation and its place in the rest of human behavior. Since life without explanation is impossible.

In the third place, your response itself is merely an assertion, and in no way proof of anything.

Your assertions are based on limited and sparse tools toward understanding. You are reciting the time worn tripe of every atheist and material determinist of the ages. Your self imposed cognitive and misunderstandings of Reality and The Nature of Things has led to failure after failure. I find it immediately tiresome and boring simultaneously to respond to this naive, Empiricism Is All There Is line of incomplete thought. I have expended much effort at elucidating and correction of low horizon myopia that I shall only point the direction that reveals the low horsepower and empty precepts you plopped down.

C. G. Jung defined individuation, the therapeutic goal of analytical psychology belonging to the second half of life, as the process by which a person becomes a psychological individual, a separate indivisible unity or whole, recognizing his innermost uniqueness, and he identified this process with becoming one's own self or self-realization, which he distinguished from "ego-centeredness" and individualism. The self, the totality of personality and archetype of order, is superordinate to the ego, embracing consciousness and the unconscious; as the center and circumference of the whole psyche, the self is our life's goal, the most complete expression of individuality (Jung 1916/1928, 1939a, 1944, 1947/1954, 1963). The aim of individuation, equated with the extension of consciousness and the development of personality, is to divest the self of its false wrappings of the persona, the mask the personality uses to confront the world, and the suggestive..

Typically, such monochrome, monaural information disguised as Truth and Wisdom is propounded by the young, impressionable, malformed or incompletely formed intellect and personality. Absent experience, in Die Welt. This is a silk wrapped Enlightenment Turd.

Your toggling of the word "insane" is incorrect and malapropos.

Escape the surly bonds of subterranean perception:

The use of insane or insanity is imprecise, casual not very causal. Its most common usage is within the legal sphere, not psychiatric, psychological, or medical. This monograph more fully exposit:

<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/20373024/>

Furthermore, insanity is often equated with psychosis; however, the two are not the same and have different connotations. It is essential for any clinical psychiatrist to understand the concept of the insanity defense and how it differs from psychosis. This paper will clarify the meaning and purpose of the insanity defense and will differentiate insanity and psychosis.

You can further explore the differences in precision and specificity yourself. Anecdotally, people frequently remark, “Oh, that is so insane!” The same kind of person who would blurb, “Oh, that is so Kafkaesque!”

Joseph Kay's remarks about the level of popular awareness of the monstrous Little Rock incident are so mistaken and indeed so discordant that they put one on the alert with regard to everything else he has written.

In September 1954, the local newspapers and TV stations in New York City, where I lived, talked incessantly about white Southerners with only slightly less contempt than they employ today. On the other hand, my own parents and many of my fellow fourth-graders' parents were plainly shocked at seeing President Eisenhower authorize troops to integrate a city's public high school at the point of a rifle. Even the Ursuline nuns who ran my parochial school had no sympathy for these police-state procedures. Besides, it wasn't as if everyone wasn't already well aware of the criminality, stupidity, and general incivility of black kids and their parents—if the kids had any parents, that is.

Permit me to offer one small correction to the excellent comment of Jim H. Strictly speaking, Eisenhower did not send federal troops into Arkansas. Instead, he nationalized the Arkansas National Guard, the very same force that Governor Orval Faubus was already using (1) to keep the nine black students and their hundreds of "civil rights" activist supporters out of the local schools and (2) to provide local parents who were protesting this outrage protection from these outside agitators. What occurred was that the Weekend Warriors who, under state authority, were protecting Little Rock's white citizens on September 22, 1957, were compelled, after being placed under federal authority one day later, to point their weapons at those very same citizens, many of whom were friends and neighbors.

It should not be overlooked that the distress and humiliation caused by this turn of events were not merely unforeseen side-effects. Then as now, they were part and parcel of the (((Establishment's))) punishment of those who have had the temerity to resist its will.

Joseph Kay: “Those who despair over the current madness should take comfort in knowing that all once formidable cosmologies eventually fall into history’s scape [sic] heap.”

This article could have used a good editing to remove numerous solecisms and typos. Presumably, the author meant to write “scrap heap” instead of “scape heap”.

Is the assertion true? To declare that the system must “eventually” collapse has become a hackneyed trope. We can trace the racial equality delusion back to Christianity, which is still with us after two thousand years, not yet having fallen into history’s scrap heap. The development of a scientific worldview in the general public is slowly killing religious faith, but instead of disappearing, the delusion of racial equality seems only to have gotten stronger. People cling to it with desperation. The unasked question in the article is WHY. WHY do people need to lie to themselves about this and so many other things? And such tenacious lies, spun by such determined liars!

When we look back at history, it appears that false ideas and utopian thinking are very deeply embedded in civilization itself. One might even say that it appears that they are indispensable to it. The racial equality delusion is both false and utopian, proof that, as TS Eliot so concisely put it, “humankind cannot bear very much reality”. Studying the situation, any honest Darwinian would surely have to concede that, under certain circumstances, there seems to be a positive survival value to mass delusion. Constructing a culture of lies apparently can enhance fitness!

I don't think this is right. People on the ground really believe this hoopla the msm is propagating. Particularly women and younger persons in general. There is a tremendous guilt and shame vis a vis racial issues. Younger White males seemed paired with an obligatory black friend or nonwhite female. At a certain professional school I know of, the student body rose up in near rebellion when a black professor was fired for (supposed) incompetence. Frustration and resignation may reflect the temperature of white boomers and older people, but overall I'd say the cultural situation is closer to that of the Maoist cultural revolution than to the late soviet era.

This appears to be Australia's future. Here we have the pleasure of spending scores of billions of dollars on promoting the abo to an artificial level that can never be sustained. Closing the gap is a too often heard catch cry. We spend millions on a fuel that is non-aromatic, thus eliminating a couple of native deaths a year. They break into airfields to sniff avgas instead. We give them housing similar to that used by working class whites, they tear up the floorboards to have an indoor bbq.

When the country wide school exams that place schools in scholastic order are being held, the kids next door are asked politely not to attend in case the results are skewed for the worst. Chaos is rampant in Alice Springs at the moment, although you would be hard pressed to find information on Facebook, as it has scrubbed the site that was providing up to date dispatches from the front.

Now the troubles have emerged in Darwin with groups of abos running amok through suburbia, swinging axes at each other. A young bottle shop worker was knifed to death and an exchange student just had his brains mashed with a fire extinguisher.

Health workers in the outback are being silenced when they mention the prevalence of std in small toddlers. Hey, it's their culture. And now we are being brainwashed to accept an abo "voice to parliament", a second government run by rabid white-blacks that will veto everything at it's discretion. Our future looks bleak.

This “study” doesn’t pass the smell test. How many black draftees were admitted into the US Army during WW1? NY blacks are used as an example, but NY had a tiny, insignificant number of blacks prior to the 1960s. Ohio also had a tiny black population during this era. If this study was correct, why hasn’t it ever been repeated, anywhere? Why now, with universal literacy and free schools haven’t blacks been able to raise their IQs? And again, why do poor Whites score higher than wealthy blacks?

Yeah. Really makes me regret the “advice” I gave my sister back when the liberal Democrats could never quite muster the votes to win the presidency, though they perennially captured most of America’s “minority votes” (always at least 95% of blacks) and she was always belly aching about the injustice of it all. She was especially miffed at the success of the hard right conservatives in basically taking over the GOP under the aegis of the “tea bagger” movement. I told her that she and her fellow travelers in the feminist movement could do the same—the rules in American politics and election to public office are the same for all—by targeting the take over of the Democrat party. Moreover, since women have an enormous actuarial advantage (male death rates being substantially higher than the female in every age cohort throughout the human lifespan), she and her lot who championed “free stuff and free passes from the government for all blacks because they are sooo disadvantaged by everyone else” would easily come to constitute a permanent majority in national elections. Unfortunately, I proved myself correct. We are now living in a woke nightmare because of white women voters. As women voters vanquish the evil white “patriarchy” they feel obliged to share the power they accrue (or its benefits) with their dark-skinned social projects. Just like the Scandinavian and Germanic countries have become hard core ultra-liberal political matriarchies who have put out the welcome mats for non-assimilable minority migrants from every race and corner of the globe. Expect the same here, especially since Crazy Joe opened the floodgates at our southern border. All the predictions of minority status for whites by 2050 have suddenly been accelerated to probably 2040 or even 2035 (when they cram EV’s down everyone’s throats—because, you supposedly know, even the climate is a matter of politics). You’ve got a dozen years to come to terms with your redirected futures, assuming the Zionist wing of the Dem party chooses not to nuke the planet and eradicate civilisation if the Russians keep winning the war in EUkraine.

Same applies for Indians(dots; of India). The majority-99.7% bring nothing of value. They also infest any company. Hire one and in 4 weeks their entire clan is working there and you are fired.

LOL. I experienced that ! We hired one Babu who used to be a bank manager in Uganda before Idi Amin booted them all out. Soon his whole department was Indians all of them with Portuguese names from other African countries.

You could not get any information from these people and the simplest task took weeks. The next episode was the “recommendation” to hire one in another department and soon that too became an infestation, this time of Pakistanis, all full of themselves and arrogant as hell.

Seeing the writing on the wall and frustrated at being unable to get what I needed to do my job in a timely manner I moved on. However, they brought down the whole business. I dont know what happened to the other whites for as you know, people are “friends when at work but after someone leaves you never hear or see them again. All the Indians also got shoved onto the street with the bankruptcy.

I imagine being the parasites they are they moved on to suck the blood of some other company. LMAO

I have another interesting tale to tell you but I have to run out now.

By the 1970s, however, the gap between East and West was widening and the promised closing doubtful.

This is absolute nonsense.

The Soviet Union's main post-war problem was that it had sacrificed more than 1/3rd of its working age male population during some unpleasantness in the 1940s during which it saved Western Europe from the idiotic machinations of the Poles and English.

This massive loss of the most productive demographic happened less than a generation after a similar demographic disaster during its Civil War (1917-21).

In 1921, the average Soviet citizen had a living standard on an approximate par to a UK or US citizen in 1720 – at least in terms of output per capita.

By 1980, output per capita in the USSR was 97% of that of the UK, and ~66% (and rising) of US per capita output.

And output in the USSR was distributed more equitably – the Gini coefficient for the USSR was in the mid-20s for the period between WWII and the final breakdown of the Soviet system; the UK was slightly lower; the US was much higher (because the US has been a corrupt kleptocracy since the mid-19th century).

At the start of WWII, per capita output in the USSR was at (roughly) the 1820s level in the US/UK; by 1980 it was at US levels circa 1964.

So the Soviet system (which was very 'capitalist' between 1921 and 1929) played "catch-up" between 1921 and 1980 – and lost 1 man in 3, a third of the way through the period.

They did this, despite being excluded from technological exchange by nothing other than assholery from the US and UK – which is exactly what both countries do routinely: steal technology from wherever it's invented (usually Germany); declare it's theirs now; prevent anyone else from using it.

This is why China feels no compunction about flouting IP monopoly.

@Сергей Гончаров

In the 1980s people in the West were indoctrinated with TV footage of long queues of sullen-face Soviets (always on an overcast day) that purported to show queues for bread in the USSR.

Nobody disputes that there was genuine queueing and food shortages in the immediate post-Gorbachev period, as the former USSR was being raped; that's quite a different thing and has a very different cause, and it's not 'internal contradictions'.

There are abundant videos of the rough parts of major US cities – with drug-addled Exceptionals listing like storm-tossed galleons ... the global audience is not encouraged to think that they're representative of the entire US economy.

The same is true of the many videos of inner-urban blight in 1970s New York, or of places like Detroit, Chicago, Baltimore right now, or tent cities in major conurbations on the west coast. Again – we're told that this is not representative.

Photos of white Crackers in the rural Deep South in the 1930s ... again, they're not 'representative' of the US in the 1930s.

Frankly, if the Soviets had been any good at propaganda, they would have produced vast quantities of footage from the US – of soup kitchens; 'skid row'; homeless tramps etc... and pumped it into every school.

As it stood, the US was doing precisely that – both internally, and in the material that was broadcast (especially TV broadcasts in West Berlin that were intended for viewing by East Berliners).

@Jiminy

LOL – there are fuck-all Abos in Australia (even counting the yellafellas and the ‘Pocahontas’ abos).

If you’re worried about where your tax dollars go, you would be far better advised to look at the massive health bureaucracy and all the ‘N-words’ (NBN, NAPLAN, NDIS).

One example: $80bn on NBN, but it’s Third World outside of major conurbations. Every Australian household is on the hook for ~6 years of unlimited ADSL – before they download a single byte of information through NBN.

Another example: $2 billion to set up myHealthRecord, and $500m a year to maintain it... and I’ve had to put in FOIA requests to get 90% of the scans I’ve had in the last 4 years. (Personally I don’t mind that: an inefficient Stasi is a good thing).

The NDIS is an absolute shit-show, too.

What did the Oz government spend, flailing around pretending to mitigate the effects of the recent US Bioweapon?

Without even bothering to look for data, I am prepared to wager that they spent more on face masks than they spent on the Abos.

The all-up cost – in lost productivity, closed businesses, and deaths of despair – makes anyone who focuses on the Abo issue, look like an absolute drongo. It’s like getting stropo about someone spraying a bit of water on your shirt, when you’re not wearing pants.

Hookworm. Specifically Necator americanus – which ironically (karmic-ly?) originated in Africa and was brought over with imported slaves.

‘Ground itch’ (the first signs of infection), if left untreated, is worth a 1-sd decline in IQ. It also causes profound lassitude.

Given that poor whites start at about 90 (even today), losing a full-sd pretty much made poor Southern whites functionally retarded.

Seriously – anyone who is unaware of ubiquitous hookworm in the Southern states before WWII, should absent themselves from conversations about North-South IQ relativities.

Following on from the well-understood, copiously-documented effects on human metabolism and cognition resulting from infection with N. Americanus...

It's really interesting to notice the geographical dispersion of the “unholy trinity” of ‘Helminths (Tricarus, Ascaris and hookworm[1]);

(1) Sub-saharan Africa;

(2) an arc that stretches from NW of India, down through Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia and Papua New Guinea; and

(3) South America (incl Mexico) and the South of the US.

I'm always dismayed by the ignorance of the HBDers regarding the consequences – cognitive, metabolic and (potentially) epigenetic – of these “neglected tropical diseases”, all of which are treatable for pennies with generic OTC products.

Although I've been aware of the consequences of hookworm in the US South for half my life, I only got really interested in the broader issue when The Lovely and I both got a dose of Giardia during a stopover in Ho Chi Minh City (Saigon) on a trip to France in 2014.

I had ‘the squits’ for 2 days, had no treatment and recovered completely. Conversely; The Lovely has ongoing digestive issues to this day, that cause her great distress at times – but has tested clear of Giardia since 2 weeks after the event.

That aside: a lot of the HBDer “Lazy Dumb African” hypothesis can be explained by likely rates of parasite-induced anaemia – as was the case for the “Dumb Lazy Redneck” explanation for Southern-state underperformance.

They carried stories in their newspapers, which I read, I don't know about TV. I remember visiting the Lenin museum on or near Red Square, and it had a mural contrasting Soviet development with an unemployed man in the West wearing a sign around his neck, "I agree to any job". But the slightly "off" English might have been a sign of the frequently ham-fisted nature of Soviet propaganda.

I remember Soviet stories homing in on how easy it was for Americans to buy guns, and how many murders resulted. When the West ran stories about Soviet dissidents, Soviet newspapers suggested that the deaths in the Jim Jones business in Guyana were the work of the CIA. Pravda in 1984 wrote that Leonard Peltier was a victim of US state vindictiveness. They also mentioned pro-US death squads in Central America, a subject that Western media naturally tended to avoid.

‘Say, it’s almost as if the Soviet Union was never the object of a worldwide economic boycott for 75 years, and did not go on to transform a feudal society into the world’s second strongest power anyway...’

This is a statement completely at odds with reality. If one looks at the changes in land ownership, the growth in literacy, industrialization — almost anything, really — the Russia of the last half-century of Tsarist rule was forging ahead more rapidly than it did under the Bolsheviks. The Germans had calculated that if war didn’t break out by 1917, Russia would be unbeatable.

Development actually slowed under Communist rule. Of course there were disruptions and conflicts in the last decades of Tsarism — but even those were as nothing compared to the apocalyptic horrors of Soviet rule.

The Soviet Union was the second-worst thing to happen to Russia. It has to be conceded it wasn’t as catastrophic as the Mongol invasions.

I think this is overly kind to Tsarist Russia. 1914-17 tested Tsarism to destruction and the earlier war with the Japanese had exposed the Empire's weaknesses. Also much of Tsarist Russia's industrial development depended on foreign expertise and capital – I think the original name of Donetsk was Yuzovka, after an Englishman named Hughes.

| 'I think this is overly kind to Tsarist Russia.

Perhaps. But would you have rather had a difference of opinion with the Tsar's police, or Stalin's?

| 1914-17 tested Tsarism to destruction and the earlier war with the Japanese had exposed the Empire's weaknesses.

It is true that the inhuman savagery of Stalin's regime permitted it to survive where the Tsarist regime could not. At the same time, is this a recommendation?

| Also much of Tsarist Russia's industrial development depended on foreign expertise and capital – I think the original name of Donetsk was Yuzovka, after an Englishman named Hughes.'

Nu? Is being able to access friendly foreign capital and expertise a demerit or something? I don't see this as a significant criticism of the Tsars.

Tsarist Russia — particularly post-Nicholas I Tsarist Russia — was (pretty inarguably, I would say) a much nicer place than the Bolshevik nightmare-state.

Solzhenitsyn recounts a telling anecdote. In the mid-forties, a young worker in Moscow started claiming he was the long-lost Tsar Michael — come to relieve the suffering of the Russian people. He posted flyers, held meetings, generally carried on. Made no serious attempt to disguise himself.

The astonishing thing is that not one of his fellow workers turned him in. He was able to continue for some time. Of course, he eventually came to the attention of the authorities. Solzhenitsyn claims to have met him in the Gulag, if I recall aright.

Soviet newspapers suggested that the deaths in the Jim Jones business in Guyana were the work of the CIA.

In an unsettling parallel that convinced many frightened parents into unnecessarily injecting their children, Jim Jones told his followers they had to kill their own children to save them from military death squads.

So maybe the Soviet newspapers were right.

It sounds like this one Indian guy hired Brahmin-origin Goan Catholics who moved permanently to the Anglosphere, instead of returning to Goa, after British rule ended in East Africa during the 1960s. Suella Braverman's father was one such specimen.

It could go badly either way. Jozef Pilsudski and Felix Dzerzhinsky might seem to have little in common but they were both Poles (the former from what is now Lithuania, the latter from Belarus), both were arrested by Tsarist police and both had teeth knocked out while guests of the Tsar. In fact despite Tsarism's reputation for anti-Semitism, both had a rougher time in custody than Trotsky or several other Jewish detainees I know of. Tsarist police seem to have had it in for Poles. (That's the kind of Tsarist-times anecdote Solzhenitsyn does not tell.) The economic dependence on Western powers, especially France and Britain, played a significant part in Tsarist Russia getting involved in WW1 in the first place.

The Russian blogosphere often tends towards neo-Tsarism – Ukrainians are just Russians, according to many of them, which was the official line under Tsarism, and the Soviet Union is criticised for giving too much recognition to Ukrainian identity.

See also France’s influence on Serbia. You’ve brought up my pet theory! France was the instigator of the First World War.

There was that French visit to Russia literally as the July crisis unfolded; then Russia acts so as to ensure the conflagration becomes universal. My understanding is that specific records of what was said have never been disclosed. More generally, France was the great dissatisfied power of the era — everyone else just wanted to keep what they had, more or less.

‘The Russian blogosphere often tends towards neo-Tsarism – Ukrainians are just Russians, according to many of them, which was the official line under Tsarism, and the Soviet Union is criticised for giving too much recognition to Ukrainian identity.’

It’s a half-truth. Solzhenitsyn was the ‘Russian’ writer of the last half-century; his mother was Ukrainian and his father of Cossack extraction. He himself called for the dissolution of the Soviet Union — but expressed the hope that the Ukrainians in particular would stick with the Russians.

Of course there are other ways of looking at it, but the backers of the Ukraine act as if it’s all a matter of two essentially separate nations — as if it were indeed Poland and Russia. See Kamala Harris’ drveling. In fact, the situation is shot through with ambiguities.

We can start with which part of ‘the Ukraine’ is to be the one whose historical experience is to be taken as the template. The western Ukraine — Lvov et al? That was only briefly attached to Russia — 1939-1941, then 1944-1991. The eastern Ukraine — more Kiev way? Wedded to Russia for more than three hundred years. ‘Novorossiya’ — that belt running around the east and south? Depopulated lands acquired by Catharine the Great — and now? Finally, the Crimea — don’t be ridiculous.

It’s all a fraught situation — but us playing the incendiary doesn’t help.

Much of Ukraine strikes me as potentially a “debatable land”.

And ambiguities are common in the region. Like the most famous epic poem in the Polish language starting off with “Lithuania! my motherland! You are my health!”

It also bumps up against the voluntarist element in nationalism.

Gogol was about as Ukrainian as it is possible to get, in terms of his origins, but other than some early poetry in Ukrainian he only wrote in Russian. Taras Bulba is a good example of his attitudes – the Cossacks are very Orthodox and the Poles are the enemy.

There are differences between the 1835 and the 1842 editions, though, with the latter edition more Russian nationalist.
