Pro Američany, jako jsem já, kteří dospěli v 70. nebo na začátku 80. let, Sovětský svaz vždy nesl závan rozpadajícího se ideologického impéria, kterému vládla zchátralá třída politického vedení, která už dávno ztratila důvěru vlastního lidu.

Takový byl můj tehdejší názor a nic, co jsem se od té doby naučil, ho nezměnilo. V té době vládli tři sovětské vůdci – Leonid Brežněv, Jurij Andropov a Konstantin Černěnko – všichni starší a nemohoucí, přičemž vláda posledních dvou byla tak krátká, že náš vlastní prezident Ronald Reagan jednou zavtipkoval, že zemřeli příliš rychle na to, aby naplánoval summit. Vzhledem k tomu, že nejvyšší představitelé SSSR byli tak zjevně oslabeni, analytici uznali, že jen stěží byli skutečnými činiteli s rozhodovací pravomocí upadajícího sovětského kolosu, který nominálně ovládali; místo toho byla většina moci pravděpodobně svěřena do rukou měnících se koalic jejich hlavních pomocníků a poradců, osob často neznámých vnějšímu světu. Snad částečně v důsledku této silné slabosti na vrcholu vstoupil SSSR do období strmého sociálního a ekonomického úpadku,

To vše byla jistě pravda, ale je docela vystřízlivění konzultovat Wikipedii a zjistit přesný věk oněch starších sovětských vůdců, kteří byli tak široce zesměšňováni v západních médiích jako zchátralí nebo dokonce senilní. Brežněvovi bylo 75 let, když zemřel v roce 1982, zatímco Andropov se dostal k moci ve věku 68 let a zemřel o patnáct měsíců později, nahrazen jeho nástupcem Černěnkem, 72

let, který přežil jen rok. Takže v dnešní Americe by všichni ti zmatení, popletení sovětští vůdci, na které jsme pohlíželi s takovým opovržením, byli mladí političtí představitelé ve srovnání s naším vlastním prezidentem Joem Bidenem, který v současnosti usiluje o znovuzvolení ve věku 80 let, nebo jeho hlavním rivalem, bývalým prezidentem Donaldem Trumpem, 77 let. Lékařská věda za poslední čtyři desetiletí očividně dost pokročila, ale myslím si, že naprostá západní nadvláda globálních médií je důležitějším faktorem tohoto velkého rozdílu ve vnímání. Je Biden skutečně o tolik ostřejší než Brežněv a Černěnko, nebo je to jednoduše tak, že naše média lépe skrývají jeho neschopnost před většinou široké veřejnosti?

Během celé své politické kariéry byl Biden proslulý tím, že pouze četl scénáře a projevy, které pro něj napsali jiní, a dokonce i ve svých 40 letech se někdy zdálo, že si vůbec neuvědomuje lži a naprosté absurdity, které chrlil. V poslední době někdy začal zaměňovat naše oficiální postoje k zásadním politickým záležitostem a vyžadoval od svých spolupracovníků, aby je rychle „vyjasnili“. Jsem si jistý, že Brežněv nebo Černěnko by udělali totéž, kdyby je dostali do takové pozice.

Přestože byl Brežněv předním světovým komunistou, osobně si dopřával nashromáždění velké sbírky luxusních automobilů, včetně Maserati, Rolls Royců a Jaguarů, což je trapný příběh široce propagovaný mocnými západními médii jako důkaz sovětského pokrytectví. Ale ačkoli přímé důkazy o notebooku Hunter Biden odhalily, že Biden a jeho rodina si od cizinců tajně vypláceli mnoho a mnoho milionů dolarů, naše mainstreamová média tuto realitu zatajila, takže velká část veřejnosti o tom pravděpodobně stále neví. Pod generálním tajemníkem SSSR měl politickou autoritu Nejvyšší sovět, parlament, který se na Západě obecně vykresloval jako tělo plné zkorumpovaných, postarších časových serverů, kteří většinou jen schvalovali politická rozhodnutí učiněná postavami, kteří tiše tahali za nitky. Taková ostrá kritika byla pravděpodobně správná, ale je náš dnešní kongres tak velmi odlišný? Senátor Mitch McConnell ve věku 81 let vedl posledních 16 let republikány v Senátu a pravděpodobně se řadí mezi dva nejmocnější republikánské vůdce v Americe. Před pár dny ale odhalil svou neschopnost odpovědět na jednoduchou otázku kvůli „zamrznutí mozku“, jak ukazuje videoklip, který na Twitteru přilákal miliony zhlédnutí.

Look, I don't especially enjoy watching an old man suffer no matter how endlessly evil he might be, but it's pretty clear that Mitch McConnell needs to retire.pic.twitter.com/MhgygCRizU

— Jo (@JoJoFromJerz) August 30, 2023

Ve svém posměšném komentáři Andrew Anglin poznamenal, že McConnell vyrostl ve skromných poměrech a poté strávil celou svou kariéru v politice, přičemž nikdy nevydělal více než 174 000 $ ročně; ale přesto se mu nějak podařilo nashromáždit osobní jmění v desítkách milionů dolarů . Zkorumpovaný a rozpadající se SSSR měl mnohem méně bohatství, které by bylo možné odsát, ale jeho komunističtí vůdci si podobně užívali životní styl, který byl mnohem lepší než životní styl jejich ubohých poddaných.

Kalifornská senátorka Dianne Feinsteinová oslavila 90. narozeniny a je zjevně senilní , přesto stále zastává klíčové pozice v několika důležitých senátních výborech . Během svých dlouhých desetiletí v úřadu měla velký politický vliv na naše zahraniční vztahy s jinými zeměmi, zejména s Čínou, a přesně v těch letech se její zesnulý manžel Richard Blum stal miliardářem díky svým mimořádně úspěšným investicím v téže zemi .

V mnoha ohledech se známky zjevné politické nestability v USA v těchto dnech zdají mnohem větší než cokoli, co bylo v 80. letech viditelné pro vnější pozorovatele v SSSR.

Zrovna minulý týden byly 6. ledna uděleny extrémně tvrdé tresty několika dalším Trumpistickým demonstrantům, včetně těch, jejichž zločiny se zdály jen stěží převyšovat překročení hranice nebo drobné vandalství. Joseph Biggs dostal 17 let ve federálním vězení za přesunutí přenosného kovového plotu, zatímco Dominic Pezzola dostal 10 let za rozbití okna. Tito jednotlivci protestovali proti extrémně těsným prezidentským volbám, které byly očividně ukradeny úřadujícímu Donaldu Trumpovi, a jejich rozzlobená politická demonstrace se konala jen několik měsíců poté, co téměř bezprecedentní celonárodní vlna nepokojů, zhářství a rabování vyústila v málo, pokud vůbec nějaké, vážné stíhání. Navíc někteří poznamenali, že tyto Trumpistické protesty v Kapitolu se ve skutečnosti příliš nelišily od těch, které Demokraté se dříve organizovali proti nominaci Bretta Kavanaugha do Nejvyššího soudu; přesto se celebritě Amy Schumer a jejím spojencům dostalo uznání médií spíše než deset nebo dvě desetiletí ve federálním vězení. Komentátor John Derbyshire, konzervativec, kterému je dnes necelých 70 let, je obvykle ve svých náladách docela zdrženlivý, ale tyto extrémní věty a další související politický vývoj označil za tak pobuřující, že nedávná republikánská prezidentská debata vypadala jako něco „irelevantního... herectví“. nějakého formálního rituálu, který již nemá žádný skutečný význam, z něhož nevyplývá nic, co by mělo jakýkoli následek." Název jeho příspěvku skutečně naznačoval, že USA „překračují volební řešení“.

Sám Trump tyto ukradené volby hořce zpochybnil a v důsledku toho čelí u státního a federálního soudu přibližně 90 trestným činům, které by ho vyloučily na 500 let. Přesto v pátek poslední průzkum ukázal, že tato obvinění způsobila, že jeho republikánská prezidentská podpora ještě posílila, nyní vzrostla na 59 % a posunula ho o 46 bodů před jeho nejbližšího republikánského primárního rivala.

Tentýž průzkum ho také označil za mrtvého – dokonce i s prezidentem Bidenem, což mu dalo vynikající šanci vyhrát hlasování v listopadu 2024, ať už náhodou vede kampaň z vězeňské cely, či nikoli, což je naprosto bizarní situace, o které jsem dlouze diskutoval. :

Tucker Carlson je s velkým náskokem nejoblíbenější mediální postavou republikánů a konzervativců a jeho rozhovor s Trumpem na Twitteru přilákal asi 15 milionů zhlédnutí videa , což je publikum mnohem větší než to, které sledovalo republikánskou prezidentskou debatu konanou přibližně ve stejnou dobu. . Před několika dny Carlson řekl, že očekává, že Trumpovi političtí nepřátelé konečně dospějí k závěru, že zorganizování jeho vraždy je jejich nejlepší šancí, jak zabránit jeho triumfálnímu návratu do Bílého domu. V tom samém rozhovoru Carlson mimoděk zmínil, že v roce 2008 se ve washingtonských mediálních kruzích stalo široce známým, že prezidentský kandidát Barack Obama měl sex s muži a kouřil crack, ale že žádný novinář, ať už demokrat nebo republikán, nebyl ochoten to oznámit. ohromující fakta pro nedbalé americké voliče.

Obamovým republikánským protivníkem v této hořké kampani byl senátor John McCain a možná nyní lépe pochopíme, proč demokraté tak nechtěli využít šokující důkazy týkající se jeho vlastního velmi špinavého záznamu války ve Vietnamu:

Minulý měsíc jsem svůj článek o Trumpově trestním stíhání uzavřel následujícím hodnocením hroutící se legitimacy amerického politického systému:

Jak jednou poznamenal Adam Smith: „V národě je velká zkáza,“ ale naše vlastní země se možná rychle blíží svému limitu. Téměř 70 % republikánů věří , že Donald Trump skutečně vyhrál volby v roce 2020 a pouze volební podvody dostaly Josepha Bidena do Bílého domu, ale Trumpovi nyní za to, že zaujal stejnou pozici, hrozí dlouhý trest vězení.

Jak zdůraznil nedávný článek New York Times , představa uvězněného bývalého prezidenta kandidujícího do Bílého domu je naprosto mimořádná událost a naše země by vstoupila na „neprobádané území“. Existuje však také velmi reálná možnost, že vyhraje Trump, a žádný z právních expertů konzultovaných Times neměl ponětí o tom, co by to znamenalo: "Nikdo neví."

Americký politický systém čelí obrovské krizi legitimacy, možná stejně vážné a potenciálně fatální jako ta, která počátkem 90. let svrhla starý SSSR. Náš příšerný rozpočtový a obchodní deficit se zdají trvalé, ale zjevně neudržitelné, nedávno jsme utrpěli nejvyšší inflaci za čtyři desetiletí a před třemi lety jsme zažili nejhorší městské nepokoje od 60. let a také největší nárůst počtu vražd v zemi od rekordního udržování začalo. Strávili jsme posledních osmnáct měsíců bojem v prohrané zástupné válce proti jaderně vyzbrojenému Rusku na vlastní ruské hranici, překvapivě bezohledným chováním, které by bylo na vrcholu staré studené války nepředstavitelné.

Tisíckrát větší než jaderná katastrofa v Černobylu

Tyto historické ozvěny mezi naším vlastním politickým úpadkem a úpadkem našeho zmizelého velmocenského rivala ze studené války jsou zjevně znepokojivé. Existují však i další důležité rozdíly a některé z nich nemusí být nutně ku prospěchu naší vlastní situace. SSSR pozdní sovětské éry byl ospalým místem, jehož obezřetní a konzervativní vůdci se spokojili s šlapáním vody, i když jejich mocné impérium postupně rezivělo. Tehdy jsem jím opovrhoval a rozhodně jsem doufal a očekával, že se nakonec zhroutí, ale nikdy jsem se nebál, že by jeho postarší vůdci mohli ve svém dojetí vyprovokovat světovou válku.

V ostrém kontrastu s tím výjimečně bezohlední a agresivní nekonzervativci zcela ovládli politické a mediální páky, které ovládají obě naše politické strany, a proto snadno tahají za nitky volených představitelů, kteří nám nominálně vládnou. Jejich léta odhodlaného nátlaku NATO proti Rusku již vyprovokovaly krvavou ukrajinskou válku, nejničivější evropský konflikt za více než tři generace, zatímco zahájili útok na Čínu, který je nyní jen stěží vojenský.

Začátkem tohoto roku Graham Allison, zakládající děkan Harvard Kennedy School of Government, uzavřel svůj důležitý článek v Foreign Policy vysvětlením, jak naše neúnavné provokace vytvořily čínsko-ruskou alianci, která nyní pravděpodobně převážila tu naši:

Základní návrh v mezinárodních vztazích 101 říká: „Nepřítel mého nepřítele je můj přítel. Současnou konfrontací Číny a Ruska pomohly Spojené státy vytvořit to, co bývalý americký poradce pro národní bezpečnost Zbigniew Brzezinski nazval „aliance poškozených“. To umožnilo Si Ťin-pchingovi zvrátit úspěšnou „trilaterální diplomacii“ Washingtonu ze 70. let, která prohlubovala propast mezi Čínou a primárním nepřítelem Spojených států, Sovětským svazem, způsoby, které významně přispěly k vítězství USA ve studené válce. Dnes jsou si Čína a Rusko, slovy Si Ťin-pchinga , blíž než spojenci.

Vzhledem k tomu, že Si a Putin nejsou jen současní prezidenti svých dvou národů, ale vůdci, jejichž funkční období ve skutečnosti nemá žádné datum vypršení, Spojené státy budou muset pochopit, že čelí nejzávažnější nedeklarované alianci na světě.

Po zmizení Sovětského svazu před více než třiceti lety se Amerika stala jedinou globální supervelmocí. Po tomto triumfu dospěla generace naší politické vůdčí třídy, která považovala celosvětovou americkou hegemonii za přirozenou a trvalou, ale jejich extrémně agresivní chování, zejména jejich neutuchající nepřátelství vůči Rusku a Číně, může být nyní na pokraji definitivního konce. té éry. Tito arogantní jedinci, kteří žijí celý svůj život v bublině mediální propagandy, si možná neuvědomují rozsah potenciálních sil, kterým čelí. Jak jsem poznamenal před několika měsíci, skutečná produktivní ekonomika Číny je již třikrát větší než americká a dokonce převyšuje celkový součet za USA, Evropskou unii a Japonsko. Mezitím, přirozeně se doplňující partner Číny Rusko, představuje největší světovou zásobárnu energetických dodávek a dalších přírodních zdrojů, stejně jako vojenskou výrobní kapacitu, která je nyní zjevně větší než Amerika spolu s jejími evropskými vazaly.

Ústředním prvkem této nové globální koalice proti americké hegemonii byla rostoucí aliance BRICS podporovaná Čínou a Ruskem, která zahrnovala také Indii, Brazílii a Jižní Afriku. Minulý týden udělala BRICS obrovský krok vpřed přidáním šesti nových členů: Íránu, Saúdské Arábie, Spojených arabských emirátů, Egypta, Etiopie a Argentiny, s vyhlídkami, že se v budoucích fázích připojí mnoho dalších zemí. Tento implicitně protizápadní blok již nyní kontroluje zhruba polovinu světových dodávek energie a populace a disponuje celkovým HDP podstatně větším, než má americká skupina G7.

Se vzestupem BRICS můžeme být svědky geopolitického posunu tak významného, jako je rozpad aliance Varšavské smlouvy a zhroucení sovětského režimu, který ji vytvořil.

Přestože naše mainstreamová média podtrhla nebo dokonce ignorovala tento tektonický vývoj, bystří jedinci poznali, odkud vítr vane. Po celá desetiletí je Roger Cohen jedním z nejuznávanějších novinářů New York Times působících v Evropě a minulého pondělí zveřejnil na titulní straně článek popisující překvapivý posun mnoha předních politických osobností kontinentu směrem k Rusku, který začíná těmito odstavci:

PAŘÍŽ – Nicolas Sarkozy, bývalý francouzský prezident, byl kdysi známý jako „Sarko Američan“ pro svou lásku k volnému trhu, volné debatě a Elvisovi. V poslední době se však jevil spíše jako „Rus Sarko“, i když se bezohlednost prezidenta Vladimira V. Putina zdá být evidentnější než kdy jindy.

Pan Sarkozy, který byl prezidentem v letech 2007 až 2012, v rozhovorech, které se shodovaly se zveřejněním memoárů, řekl, že zvrácení ruské anexy Krymu bylo „iluzorní“, vyloučil, že Ukrajina vstoupí do Evropské unie nebo NATO, protože musí zůstat „neutrální“. „ a trval na tom, že Rusko a Francie „se navzájem potřebují“.

"Lidé mi říkají, že Vladimir Putin není ten samý muž, kterého jsem potkal." To mi nepřijde přesvědčivé. Měl jsem s ním desítky rozhovorů. Není iracionální," řekl listu Le Figaro . „Evropské zájmy tentokrát nejsou v souladu s americkými,“ dodal.

Jeho prohlášení pro noviny i pro televizní síť TF1 byla pro bývalého prezidenta neobvyklá v tom, že jsou v hlubokém rozporu s oficiální francouzskou politikou. Vyvolaly pobouření ukrajinského velvyslance ve Francii a odsouzení několika francouzských politiků, včetně prezidenta Emmanuela Macrona.

Téhož dne se na titulní straně listu Wall Street Journal objevil jiný článek o hrozné ekonomické situaci Německa, přední evropské průmyslové velmoci. Mezi nejdůležitější faktory v nesnázích této země patřila ztráta levné ruské energie a pokles exportu do Číny, oba důsledky naprostého podřízenosti Německa americké zahraniční politice. Ačkoli současné vládní vedení a všechny tradiční strany stále zůstávají na těsné politické dráze Washingtonu, Alternativa pro Německo , nová populistická strana, která zaujímá zcela odlišný postoj, nedávno v průzkumech prudce vzrostla, nyní překračuje 20% podporu a dostává se na druhé místo, což vyvolalo urážlivé antidemokratické řeči o jeho zákonném zákazu .

Energetické plynovody Nord Stream představovaly některé z nejdůležitějších evropských civilních infrastruktur a výbuchy, které je zničily, jsou zodpovědné za velkou část německého utrpení.

Začátkem tohoto roku renomovaný investigativní novinář Seymour Hersh odhalil, že útoky provedl americký vojenský sabotážní tým na příkaz prezidenta Bidena, což je přímý akt války proti nejdůležitějšímu evropskému členovi NATO. Německá média zatím tyto informace před voliči své země úspěšně tají, ale když a jestli lid nakonec odhalí pravdu, NATO se může rozpadnout.

Seymour Hersh: Vysoký v moři lží

Naše ekonomické a vojenské konfrontace s Čínou a Ruskem byly katastrofálně špatné a toto uznání svedlo dohromady přední osobnosti z celého ideologického spektra. Před více než týdnem poskytl prof. Jeffrey Sachs , uznávaný světový ekonom a umírněný liberál, rozhovor, ve kterém diskutoval o historickém vzestupu aliance BRICS v opozici vůči arogantní americké světové hegemonii.

Watch Video At: <https://youtu.be/zJboBdQeJzg>

Přibližně ve stejnou dobu poskytl svůj poněkud podobný přehled o expanzi BRICS profesor Michael Hudson , vlivný levicový ekonom.

Watch Video At: <https://youtu.be/g32m8XaSnEE>

Na konci minulého týdne pak Ray McGovern , bývalý vysoký představitel CIA a politický umírněný, poskytl svůj pohled na prohranou proxy válku Ameriky na Ukrajině:

Watch Video At: <https://youtu.be/OL1A9QGncSg>

Plukovník Douglas Macgregor , velmi významný vojenský expert a silný pravičák, měl podobné názory na Ukrajinu.

Watch Video At: <https://youtu.be/r1t2HwhjR1M>

Tito různí jednotlivci, všichni vysoce důvěryhodní a renomovaní, zastávají velmi širokou škálu ideologických pozic a další postavy podobného postavení, jako John Mearsheimer a Seymour Hersh , byli stejně kousaví ve své kritice politiky naší vlády. Před několika desítkami let mnohé z těchto postav prokázaly svou odvahu, integritu a znalosti tím, že patřily k předním kritikům naší katastrofální války v Iráku, která stála naši zemi biliony dolarů a vedla ke zničení velké části Blízkého východu. . V roce 2005 můj starý přítel Bill Odom, tříhvězdičkový generál, který vedl NSA pro Ronalda Reagana, skvěle popsal naši invazi do Iráku jako „největší strategickou katastrofu v historii USA“. Nyní opět slouží našim skutečným národním zájmům velmi široká ideologická koalice nebláznů.

Můžeme jen doufat, že jejich úsilí pomůže zajistit, že hrozící kolaps našeho odsouzeného Amerického impéria bude zahrnovat stejně málo krveprolití jako rozpad stejně odsouzeného Sovětského impéria před více než generací.

I was reading an article from a former NSA analyst (sorry I don't recall the link). He wrote the NSA was excited in the early 1980s that they found a way to intercept wireless phone calls between Soviet leaders, mostly from their limos.

They were excited that they could learn the important thoughts of Soviet leaders addressing key issues. But they were all in their 70s and 80s and all they talked about were personal health issues.

BS. Dems will cheat massively again. Trump needs to get 80% of the honest vote to get 51% of the “official” vote.

If we regard the 2020 election as stolen because of the suppression of the Hunter Biden laptop story, then what do we think about the massive mainstream media coverage in 2016 of Hillary Clinton's use of a private email server while Secretary of State, really a rather insignificant thing? The FBI investigation of that matter was reopened shortly before Election Day, and the ensuing media coverage surely negatively influenced the vote for Clinton, although in a less close election than that in 2020. This story received more attention than the much more consequential Pizzagate, which appeared far more sinister and damning for Clinton and her allies.

Perhaps the most striking thing that we have witnessed in the last decade— especially since 2016— is how truth no longer matters much if at all. And this flight from truth seems to be accelerating. Alas, motus in fine velocior (“Things accelerate toward the end”).

A perfect example from today:

Ukraine’s victory is closer than ever – but a shattered Russia is nothing to celebrate

Daniel Johnson

Sun, September 3, 2023

The Russians are losing their war on Ukraine. They just don’t know it yet...

Ukraine has the tanks, it has the men and it has Zelensky too. This battle-hardened but by no means war-weary people, its national identity forged in adversity, is fighting to liberate all of its land – Crimea included.

With or without Western support and sanctions, Ukraine will fight on until Putin’s evil empire is defeated.

This informative piece explains the decline and progressive venality of empires with consummate ease. However in the concluding remarks

Now once again, our true national interests are being served by a very broad ideological coalition of the non-crazy.

A crucial, if indispensable, factor, indeed a driving element that goes missing in the article is Jewish power. Foreign policy of America's body politic and that of its vassals, including the destruction of the Middle East mentioned in this piece is directed and run by Jewish lobbies, finance, media and over representation of Jews in successive US administrations. Now that is the missing link in an otherwise brilliant analysis.

Also, the fawning of presidential aspirants to Jewish power is yet another glaring omission.

HOW BAD IS IT FOR UKRAINE? By Larry Johnson

<https://alethonews.com/2023/09/03/how-bad-is-it-for-ukraine/>

If you want to gauge the desperation of the Ukrainian situation, just read this interview with Polish volunteer who just returned to Poland from the front:

Polish volunteer Slawomir Wysocki traveled to Ukraine, returned home and in an interview for the media told what is really happening with the counter-offensive, which is so publicized by the Ukrainian authorities.

“The human losses of the Ukrainian side are huge. Western equipment is burning like matches. Things are much worse than is commonly imagined. I counted the graves in Lviv. In the old part of the cemetery there are about 100 graves, in the new part there are more than 600.

In the villages this proportion is colossally different. When I drive by, I see cemeteries along the streets. Each has up to a dozen new graves. There are flags near each one, they are easy to recognize. There are more than two thousand graves in Kharkov. It is impossible to hide these losses.

Two months ago I was full of optimism about Kupyansk. Now we are still managing to hold our ground. It seems that the Russians are doing everything they can to reach Kupyansk, where they will take their positions for the spring offensive.”

When asked by a journalist how Ukrainians feel about the Russian defense system, the Pole said:

“They are terrified. They know that the Russian army has already foreseen everything. The defense system was built by construction companies. This is not a peasant waving a shovel to build a trench. Companies came in, poured concrete, made fortifications in the style of the Maginot Line. And there are three or four such lines. Ukrainians say that there are five mines per square meter. You can't put your foot on the ground without one of them exploding".

Interesting comparison. 1980's was called a decade of glorious funerals for passing away of large number of old soviet leadership. I think an interesting point is the ideological rigidity of the ruling class which leads to collapse and failure of any system. It precludes people to see which way the wind is blowing and entrenched interests keep milking the systems while it lasts. And generally, it tends to be very difficult to reverse the course once the decline has begun for simple reason that apparent signs of social decline takes decades to manifest after the real rot has begun. By such time, the financial resources and slack in the system required for course correction are already gone. As was the case in USSR, when the reforms under prestroika and glasnost began. it was almost late by two decades and short by couple of hundred billion dollars due to complexity, integration and consolidation of supply chains.

And when the polis internalize defeatism that there is nothing worth saving, the empires fizzle with a whimper instead of a bang.

On my first pass through this one it seemed so uncharacteristically mild that I decided to wade through it again. Second time was the charm.

Just last week extremely harsh sentences were imposed upon several additional January 6th Trumpist protesters, including those whose crimes hardly seemed to exceed trespassing or petty vandalism. Joseph Biggs received 17 years in federal prison for moving a portable metal fence, while Dominic Pezzola got 10 years for breaking a window.

Mr. Unz is peddling BS here. Briggs was found guilty of Seditious Conspiracy.

In order to win a seditious conspiracy case, prosecutors have to prove that two or more people conspired to “overthrow, put down or to destroy by force” the U.S. government or bring war against it, or that they plotted to use force to oppose the authority of the government or to block the execution of a law.

<https://apnews.com/article/politics-legal-proceedings-united-states-government-violence-proud-boys-0eedce46cf5375f3417f4a9c968a8e62>

Extensive video evidence documented Pezzola’s actions at the Capitol on Jan. 6, including a video he filmed inside after leading the breach. He was found guilty of assaulting, resisting or impeding certain officers, as well as stealing the police shield and other charges in May.

<https://www.nbcnews.com/politics/justice-department/proud-boy-sentenced-rcna102857>

These individuals were protesting an extremely close Presidential election that had obviously been stolen from incumbent Donald Trump...

Mr. Unz surely knows how to do simple arithmetic, so he is welcome to check my own calculations comparing the 2016 and 2020 elections. In the former case, Hillary lost to Trump by 74 electoral real electoral votes (after adjusting for 7 faithless electors) despite having 2.1% more popular votes. In 2020, Trump lost to Biden by 74 electoral votes where Biden also got 4.5% more popular votes.

If Mr. Unz can point to any of his essays where he remarked that the “extremely close” 2016 Presidential election had “obviously been stolen” from Hillary, I’ll withhold any charges of more BS peddling.

In that same interview, Carlson casually mentioned that in 2008 it had become widely known in Washington media circles that Presidential Candidate Barack Obama had been having sex with men and smoking crack, but that no journalist, whether Democrat or Republican, was willing to report those astonishing facts to the oblivious American electorate.

If Mr. Unz owns a dictionary, he’ll be able to verify that the word “fact” has an entry there. The Merriam Webster doesn’t carve out an exception for casual and unsubstantiated claims by a wealthy right-wing Fox News personality. Personally, I believe BHO is a genuine POS, but “casually” claiming – without evidence – that he likes to pull the wings off flies or torture baby kittens hardly enhances my claims about the man.

If a reader can get by the stupid * in this piece, I’ll grant there are some really decent sections within it. It’s a shame the crappy parts weren’t edited out before it got published.

Nice work, Ron Unz.

When a country rules by extreme centralization of information control, it is likely to rudely collide with reality. True of a petty tyrant like MacBeth who wouldn't hear unwanted news, of Stalin's crudely physical information control, and of the nearly total but mostly invisible manipulation of Americans by the security state, so total and so effective that even the most highly educated sincerely believe its obvious falsehoods.

There is a lot of youtube chatter on each side of the Ukraine conflict, its expertise and good faith often difficult to determine.

Realist Mearsheimer has a new substack where he goes on at Unzian length, with copious footnotes, on foreign policy, usually Ukraine.

This is his extremely detailed and closely reasoned analysis of the futility of the Ukrainian counteroffensive.

<https://mearsheimer.substack.com/p/bound-to-lose>

And this is a broader view of the likely trajectory of the conflict, exhaustive as well. <https://mearsheimer.substack.com/p/the-darkness-ahead-where-the-ukraine>

Compare Mearsheimer's brilliance and professionalism to the childish cartoons propagated by Nuland, Blinken, and the think-tank swamp.

He would eventually have been appointed Secretary of State except for his insistence that U.S. foreign policy be in the interest of the U.S. and its citizens.

It'll take 5 years or more to pan out.

This i understood at 10 or 11 years old, maybe 2 years after Chernobyl – the entire stature of the USSR was diminished. We started sending them wheat around that time.

Can anyone imagine the Cubans attempting an African colonial empire? Man was that pathetic. Things really turned on them in Afghanistan around that time too.

It happened fast, the fall of the union. People everywhere knew they were full of crap, as they just could not admit to the radioactive material spilling out into Scandinavia.

In sharp contrast, the exceptionally reckless and aggressive Neocons have gained complete mastery over the political and media levers that control both our political parties, and therefore they easily pull the strings of the elected officials who nominally govern us.

This is an overly simplistic and naive assertion that helps to illustrate the meaning of the expression “limited hangout”.

First of all these “Neocons” are overwhelmingly Jewish, and their main bent has always been on vanquishing Israel’s enemies. Consider ((Wesley Clarke’s)) famous quip about over-throwing 7 Muslim countries made shortly after 9/11.

The constant synchronicity between the Neocons, the Bankers, the Media, Hollywood and big Pharma is proof enough for most of us that they are all serving a higher authority.

For those of us willing to name Jews, like Nuland, Blinken and Zelinsky, the incited civil war in Ukraine is about far more than merely “Russia”.

A recent ZH article gives us a clue as to the true ((Neocon)) agenda in Ukraine:

A Dire Warning: The US Plan To Make Ukraine Into Europe’s ‘Big Israel’

Jerusalem Post > World News

Zelensky: Ukraine will be like Israel, not demilitarized like Switzerland after war

By TOVAH LAZAROFF Published: APRIL 5, 2022 21:27

Why does the Jew Zelinsky keep blathering on about Ukraine becoming a “Big Israel”? This is because everyone with a smidgeon of intelligence knows about the Khazarian Rabbi’s and their Heavenly Jerusalem project.

Netanyahu has repeatedly made statements about “squeezing the US like a lemon” until there is nothing left. The Khazarians are not at all concerned about the US and is irrelevant goy constitution. The Khazarians want Crimea, and they are using their “complete mastery over the political and media levers that control both our political parties”, and all of the EU, to make sure that their Heavenly Jerusalem project comes to fruition.

| That same poll also placed him dead-even with President Biden,

Am I the only one who notices, or just the only one who comments on it, that every single election and every single poll and every single Congressional vote, is more or less exactly even? What are the odds of that? (*)

In line with your reminiscences of coming of age in the 70s-80s, my political awareness started with Watergate (it was hard to miss). Based on my experience since, this is unprecedented. Remember the Nixon, Reagan and Bush landslides? Or LBJ in '64?

The only explanation (other than we live in an AI simulation) is that this is all rigged. Either:

1. In order to make it easier to rig, the results are kept within the 50/50 margin. Easier to add a few votes to tip the balance, rather than printing and counting massive amounts for a landslide or even a “close” race.
2. All this is rigged to create a sense of helplessness, a sense that nothing can ever be decided (no problems can be solved), a sense that you, the Trump voter for instance, face an equally sized opponent (Biden of the 81 million votes), and vice versa.

It's almost as if it's designed to mock the idea of “democracy” as what Hitler would call a “talking shop” where nothing is actually accomplished.

The question is, will this lead to a demand for a WEF/Schwob type Supreme Ruler, as They seem to want, or a NS style populist tribune, like Spengler's Caesar or Trump as God Emperor?

(*) The only exception is voting to support Israel, which, with equal inevitability, always 99%. What a coincidence.

As long as Biden is able to indulge his kleptomania and his pedophilic fantasies, it's unlikely that he cares much about affairs of state. Many men are able to maintain a high level of mental function well into their nineties but physical stamina drops rapidly after eighty. Biden has always been a dummy so his handlers don't care.

The jokes and rumors about Obama have been around for years, and he has always given the impression of being "soft" and a bit petulant.

Saner heads amongst us want to pull the body back parallel to the tracks so we can just fall on our faces and only suffer embarrassment, but neocon hate and globalists' lust for complete planet-wide hegemony won't let it happen, and our momentum toward that rail in front of the wheel remains strong now that it is sight.

Trump's four years of peace gave the East just enough time to prepare. We would have started the Ukies against Russia by 2018 if Hillary had won. The neocons at State have been planning these conflicts for over a decade.

Trump won't be on the ballot. Whats you gonna do then, bunky?
Start another insurrection?

Top Democrats say there's a strong case for disqualifying Trump

Rebecca Falconer

3 Sep 2023

Two leading Democrats said Sunday there are potential grounds to remove former President Trump from the 2024 presidential ballot under the 14th Amendment's "insurrection clause."

The big picture: The comments by Rep. Adam Schiff (D-Calif.) and Sen. Tim Kaine (D-Va.) come as Trump sent out fundraising emails Sunday on potential litigation over the 14th amendment that railed against "traitorous 'Republicans'" who may be looking into potential cases as he stares down four criminal indictments, per NBC News.

Context: Election officials in several states are examining whether Trump's name should be removed from the 2024 ballot due to Section 3 of the 14th Amendment, which prevents anyone who "engaged in insurrection" against the U.S. from holding elected office.

- Two liberal nonprofits have vowed to take legal action should Republican presidential primary front-runner Trump's name appear on the ballot.

The United States as an empire is done. It's been done for a while. In fact, it sowed the seeds of its own destruction when it foolishly thought that it could de-industrialize instead of paying workers a fair wage. It instead parceled out to Wall Street and the financial sector the task of credit creation which indebted the average American for decades with no hopes of solvency.

The US financial elite chose winners based on fealty to the regime. (Re: Bill Gates, Elon Musk, Warren Buffet, etc.) and disregarded the legitimate desires of its citizens. It used propaganda and media manipulation to psychologically attack generations of its youth in the hopes that they would never organize a counter measure or resistance to US designs for global tyranny.

That is all now falling apart.

The USA is a laughingstock on the world. I talk to people from around the world and when I say that I am American, invariably they have a relative who lives in America currently. It is either that or they want to go to America themselves. However, in the same breath, they don't understand why America let's people be citizens and vote in its elections. They say that in their countries, foreigners could never be citizens, much less hold political office. But hey, when the rich drunk is buying drinks for everyone at the bar, who is going to refuse?

The Perestroika Deception and the West's 'Globalist Leaders'

While Soviet penetration of Western governments has been ongoing since the early 1930's with the election victory of crypto-communist, mass murderer, and 33rd degree Freemason Franklin Delano Roosevelt; several periods of immense penetration surprisingly include the presidency of the formerly hardline anti-communist Richard Nixon, via Soviet agent Henry Kissinger, the Reagan years with the rise of the Trotskyite Neoconservatives, mostly hardline Zionist New York City jews of Russian origin who portrayed their Marxist sympathies as a thing of the past or concealed them entirely, and finally post-1991 specifically during the Clinton administration.

All empires, and their rulers, are “notorious for merely reading the scripts”. None yet have seen the pattern – the writing on the wall – the fate of them all. No one remains a “sole global superpower forever”. History comes down to a simple syllogism: every empire eventually faces the war it is trying to avoid; everyone wants to avoid WW III; so, in conclusion, mankind will face nuclear Armageddon. Paradoxically, we will never change that fate unless we accept it – accept the pattern of history.

| Polling — Voting

Alternative voting digitally, and having this polled and tracked, all in the open, before the actual vote, could be the solution. It would condition the obvious aftermath, the “real” voting as a fraud.

Something similar to the Douglas Macgregor solution: expose the larger picture of personality/personal-history/competency of any candidate pre-elections could be fitted in.

As Macgregor says, the cost of such would not be outer-world. The cost of alternative voting over the internet on a voluntary effort, open sourced, and documented, then discussed through alternative channels, all up-front of any conventional voting would be of a net asset, a hurdle to any vote-rigging afterwards.

Would do away with the in-numerous ‘experts’ who thrive on elections as a “raison d’être”. To question any narrative, not distinct opinion is required, but proper alternative data gathering, the one necessary step deeper layer. It could be an example to the world of cognitive elites with different biases and not at the behest of conventional finance and corporate enumeration of how to get rid of data poisoning and create an alternative world that can be envisioned by the many.

The finance mongering should be brought in the open as a next. Real numbers allow for analysis, as of today only analysis is the rule.

They were excited that they could learn the important thoughts of Soviet leaders addressing key issues. But they were all in their 70s and 80s and all they talked about were personal health issues.”

Today if the Russians are listening in on Biden’s phone calls to Nancy Pelosi or Mitch McConnell, I’m sure they’d get much of the same conversations that the NSA heard from the elderly Russian leaders, Biden telling Pelosi about his new commode and Pelosi telling McConnell about her preference for certain brands of adult diapers over others.

@Carlton Meyer

I was reading an article from a former NSA analyst (sorry I don't recall the link). He wrote the NSA was excited in the early 1980s that they found a way to intercept wireless phone calls between Soviet leaders, mostly from their limos.

They were excited that they could learn the important thoughts of Soviet leaders addressing key issues. But they were all in their 70s and 80s and all they talked about were personal health issues

They were even more excited that they found a way to listen to Americans talk, not about their health, but about their government. The one the NSA was created to protect.

The entire boomer experience has been about crippling the future generations, so that they would remain the peak of wealth and prosperity forever. This plan has succeeded marvelously. They flooded us with immigrants, they shipped all the jobs out of the country, they pushed free sex on kids, they pushed homosexuality, they started all these wars, and now they're trying to trigger World War III as they die off, laughing.

This is a passage from Anglin Unz you linked to... sounds like you were on board with it along with your tribe..

Flooding us with immigrants...

Sounds like what you and Bill Kristol advocate along with every other fucking neocon...

Just over a week ago, Prof. Jeffrey Sachs, a renowned world economist and a moderate liberal, gave an interview in which he discussed the historic rise of the BRICS alliance in opposition to arrogant American world hegemony.

In this discussion on BRICS it's important to point out that not only is Sachs a renowned expert in global economics but also a renowned monetary economist (theories of money). He is uniquely qualified to discuss this issue.

What a great article. Thanks!

Now once again, our true national interests are being served by a very broad ideological coalition of the non-crazy.

When trying to understand why anything comes to an end, let alone an empire, it's wise to avoid attributing it to a single causal force. But, if there's one thing tying together the many reasons one could give, an obvious answer would be found in Explanation, as in, explanatory behavior.

After all, explanations function by organizing our transactions with the world. They don't work, we don't work. We are living in The Age of Explanatory Collapse, and have been in the West for the last 200+ years. But that's another story.

In any event, two things are discernible in the explanations emanating from power centers when things start falling apart. 1. Their explanations don't make sense. 2. They don't work. The main reason for this being that the power center no longer questions its own assumptions, the analysis and examination of which it strictly forbids, thereby sealing its fate.

Of course, power centers have always acted like this. But for those in power today the situation has changed. Because they are in power at a time when the world they are attempting to control is more complex and unpredictable than ever before, and at a time when we have more precise knowledge of ourselves and, even with censorship, instant access to that knowledge.

And now we're back to the quote above from Ron's article.

Explanations work only if they're open-ended from both sides, theory and data. Otherwise everything is too top-down and dependent on force. The problem there is that if force fails there's no alternative. And that is the situation we're in today. Nothing works, so things are falling apart. Just look around.

From this perspective, perhaps what accounts for the non-crazy is their willingness and ability to expose their ideas to a process of continuous feedback and correction. Not necessarily because it makes us better people, or is the right thing to do. But because feedback and correction is the source of human adaptability. And whatever one's take on what's happening now, we can all agree that to be able to deal intelligently and imaginatively with our many problems, we first have to stay alive.

One more parallel between the USSR and the USSA. Osama bin Laden, through his role in Afghanistan conflict, brought down the Soviet Union. Then, for an encore, through his role in 9-11 attack, brought down the United States.

Maybe the 9-11 is bigger than we think. We made 9-11 into a test of character of our own design and then we failed it. Our military guild was allowed to go rampaging around the world for 20 years. But that was them, acting in their own private interest. At home, the resolve that followed in the wake of 9-11 quickly dissolved, and now we are living out the irony of seeing the hero of 9-11, Rudy Guiliani, being prosecuted by the American elements who arguably most in sympathy with the anti-Western revolutionaries of the world.

Well said.

All these Federal security agencies that were created to — ostensibly — protect America and the American people, have morphed over the decades into Frankenstein Monsters which now threaten the lives and safety/security of American people.

Example: the CIA, created to provide US with foreign intelligence — a useful and necessary function — has escaped its restraints and is involving itself in internal affairs of America and Americans. There is very strong circumstantial evidence that the CIA was involved (organized?) the assassinations of both JFK and RFK. Its tentacles have spread into all sorts of domestic “news” organizations, where it plants (false) stories and interferes in the internal political life of ordinary Americans.

I haven't investigated the matter, but there does seem to be considerable circumstantial evidence of widespread ballot fraud by Democratic Party forces, hardly surprising given the apocalyptic manner in which so many of their leaders had characterized the threat of a Trump reelection.

For Christ's sake, get real. We are in the middle of a slow-motion Soros-type color revolution in the US, based on the standard claim of a stolen election, and you're supporting it.

Thank you Ron for another insightful and very readable current situation analysis. One can only hope it catches the imagination of one or more in the Biden Whitehouse, but then I am an eternal optimist. I am however compelled to observe that your a assessment of the current neocon control situation neglected to mention the co-opting of the Federal and State judiciary in addition to the “political and media levers” you highlight. This co-opting became undeniably apparent in 2021 when efforts to clear the air regarding the 2020 election were rejected by a majority of SCOTUS justices under the leadership of John G, Roberts. For many, one may imagine, the Court’s assumed role as guardian of the US Constitution was forever lost. In fairness one should also point out that these same institutions have apparently been compromised across many, if not all, Western nations in recent years.

The average American today has been brought up to believe “honesty is the best policy”. No other 5 words could embrace such rubbish especially where our political class is concerned. People want to believe and our elites feed them any bullshit they want to hear.

In addition, elites make the rules to benefit themselves and constrain the people. When these promises/ rules are for the most part impossible to keep/ enforce, then they are forgotten or verbal persuasion and violent persuasion is applied. Some examples:

-When I am elected I will do this and that. Once elected they dont do a thing

-If you rob the liquor store of $100 you will be jailed. They rob millions and nothing happens

-Claim a sandwich on you tax return and the IRS will shove the tax code up your ass. Claim you crack and whore expenses and no problem !!

-These 100 tons of bombs are to persuade you to accept democracy or we will legally wipe you out. On the other hand, a Policeman shooting one doped up Nigger not complying with our law gets a stiff jail term

-Offshore accounts are a no-no. They stash their money offshore.

-Prostitution and Coke are illegal. Judges, Lawyers, Accountants, Policemen etc get their knobs cleaned and their noses dusted.

-They interfere in the elections of other countries but visa versa is not allowed

-Russia must not violate Ukraine’s border but its okay for millions of the world’s scum to inundate ours

We can question election results but you must not do so or else ? JAIL ! People breaking windows and littering on Jan 6th are getting more time in the Big House than murderers and rapists. The Republicans look the other way because they collude in setting a precedent ie if Democratic supporters do the same THEY are going to get reamed. Another concern here is that the next time such a thing goes down the participants will figure they have nothing to lose, Many may decide to go all the way. Better deceased than a 20 year jail sentence.

I can safely say hypocrisy rules, its good for me but NOT for you. Its no wonder lawlessness rules the streets. The hardcore and borderline criminal wonders why he should toe the line when his leaders are robbing other motherfuckers including their electorate.

When I look at the political class in the US, for sure I would not hire any of them to scrape the shit off my toilet. Yet, we elect them and give these idiots control of trillions of our dollars. Which company would ever hire a Max Walters, Pelosi or Biden in any role other than as a go-between to other political “influencers”.

What is the average citizen to do ? Bringing a walking stick to a gunfight is unwise. Bringing a belief in honesty to guys who are hard core disciples of Ali Baba is the height of stupidity.

Advice : Lookout for yourself, the ones you love and the ones who love you. The political class and the rich do not care about you !!! Their loves are money and power !!! The US is getting worse every day and will collapse This is evident to see but many do not see. Leave the place because when the final reckoning comes you will be the meat between the dogs.

You apparently looked in the wrong portion of the linked article. Since others have made the same complaint, I'll quote several of the crucial paragraphs, originally published just after the January 6th protests:

Even leaving aside some of these plausible claims, the case for a stolen election seems almost airtight. I don't know or care anything about Dominion voting machines, whether they are controlled by Venezuelan Marxists, Chinese Communists, or Martians. But the most blatant election-theft was accomplished in absolutely plain sight.

Not long before the election, the hard drive of an abandoned laptop owned by Joe Biden's son Hunter revealed a gigantic international corruption scheme, quite possibly involving the candidate himself. But the facts of this enormous political scandal were entirely ignored and boycotted by virtually every mainstream media outlet. And once the story was finally published in the pages of the New York Post, America's oldest newspaper, all links to the Post article and its website were suddenly banned by Twitter, Facebook, and other social media outlets to ensure that the voters remained ignorant until after they had cast their ballots.

Renowned international journalist Glenn Greenwald was hardly a Trump partisan, but he became outraged that the editors of the Intercept, the $100 million publication he himself had co-founded, refused to allow him to cover that massive media scandal, and he angrily resigned in protest. In effect, America's media and tech giants formed a united front to steal the election and somehow drag the crippled Biden/Harris ticket across the finish line.

The Hunter Biden corruption scandal seemed about as serious as any in modern presidential election history and Biden's official victory margin was just 0.01%. So if the American voters had been allowed to learn the truth, Trump almost certainly would have won the election, quite possibly in an Electoral College landslide. Given these facts, anyone who continues to deny that the election was stolen from Trump is simply being ridiculous.

When I read that WWI was about Germany wanting their share of the 'pie,' I thought well, that is what is happening now. The EU wants their 'share' of energy production and has several irons in the fire to make it happen.

Not too many things would make the EU be content to have war on their door step, but like the war in crushing opposition to unification, aka Slavic rejection, we again see how far they will go. The Ukraine war is to eliminate population that would reject the western purchases of their farmland, and to give the go-ahead of the development of gas fields, there by creating their own EU fuel supply, no Russia, no shipping, no cross-country lines required.

Their reserve action, again courtesy of the US, is to bring Syrian gas, under the flag of the new pro-western country Rojavna, to the Med shore to be a 'pull up and gas up' port for the EU.

The longer the war continues, the greater the possibility of straying off course so that history records yet another 'mistake' or precipitates a much wider war front.

Hmmmm.....what happened in WWI was that German's attention was caught when the war retracted back to the German border.

Oddly overlooked in this blog about the symptoms of putrefaction in the USSR in the 70s and 80s and analogous symptoms in the ZOG American empire in 2023 is the fact that Ronald Reagan was also a geriatric leader, older at the end of his term of office than any of the Soviet leaders listed in the blog. I guess because Unz is a jew and an elitist he also neglects to write about the many similarities between the ordinary Russian in the 80s and the ordinary American in 2023, confining his observations to the political class. A ubiquitous NSA controlled American MSM talking point in the 70s and 80s was that most of the Soviet population were demoralized zombies and dysfunctional alcoholics. It is also obvious that in 2023 many Americans are obese and drug addicted and demoralized. Why many (most?) Americans are obese zombies hooked on a variety of easily available drugs is likely because it is American government policy. A drugged population wont give the jews any trouble. The ubiquitous highway billboards put up by government promoting legal weed and casinos is more evidence that the zombification of the population is American government policy. Like the Soviet Union the American government has waged a relentless war against traditional Christianity, fathers and family and has successful transformed almost all christian denominations into woke instruments of the state.

It is a known fact — but maybe not well known — that the KGB had deep penetration agents* in the NSA in those years.

It is quite plausible that KGB had learned about NSA's ability to listen in to their top political leaders' mobile phone calls, but chose to keep quiet about it and chose not to secure the comms: they knew their Senior Citizens weren't discussing anything important, and didn't want to tip the NSA that they (KGB) knew by making changes. Andropov, who was a KGB head previously, would most likely have known, but was smart and experienced enough not to discuss anything important on mobile comms.

* some were uncovered and caught by the FBI after operating for years.

Who knows if there were/are others who were never caught.

Excellent article Mr. Unz.

These historical echoes between our own political decline and that of our vanished superpower rival of the Cold War are obviously disturbing. But there are also other important differences, and some of these are not necessarily to the advantage of our own situation.

In sharp contrast [to the sleepy late decline Soviets], the exceptionally reckless and aggressive Neocons have gained complete mastery over the political and media levers that control both our political parties, and therefore they easily pull the strings of the elected officials who nominally govern us.

To me this is not the main difference between the collapse of the Soviets and the anticipated collapse of the USA.

I think the main difference will be in the massive possession of firearms by civilians, the flooding of America with LatAm and other coloured peoples, and the widening income inequality. This mix will lead to internal warfare.

Another aspect you might want to consider. Just like the Soviet collapse led to many wars in Eastern Europe, the collapse of the USA will lead to many wars in Western and Northern Europe.

Both the internal American warfare and the several conflicts in Western and Northern Europe that I see in my crystal ball will be characterized by genocides committed on 3rd world immigrants.

“1980’s was called a decade of glorious funerals for passing away of large numbers of old Soviet leadership”

If my memory is correct during the last 15 years of the Soviet Union it had 9 “leaders” chosen by Politburo members. Except for Gorbshov the last one (when it was too late) all aging and decrepit and clearly not individuals capable of leading an organization of that size and complexity.

So the question is: why did the Politburo elect the most feeble among them? Answer: It was self preservation. Most of the rest were in similar condition and the last thing they wanted was a strong minded, youngish, energetic leader because that guy would have cleaned house, including them.

Although 2023 Washington D.C. has not reached 1980’s Moscow depths there is similarity that is unnerving. Biden being example # 1. A crook from day one in the Senate, greatest skill was back slapping politicians of both parties, never very bright at his peak and now running at 60% of that is “elected” President of the United States.

Certainly a country of our size and duration will have included quite a cast of characters who have managed to reach D.C., but this type is no longer coming and going in even numbers. They are accumulating at a scary pace. I’m worried !

“The political class and the rich do not care about you... Their loves are money and power...The US is getting worse every day and will collapse.”

I wish you were wrong. Alas, I think you're right.

It's hard to gauge the true state of affairs, given the propensity of social media to “accentuate the negative.” Still I think things are worsening. Perhaps rapidly so.

Look at how many “sanctuary cities” are belatedly losing their stool after beginning to experience a fraction of what border towns have endured for the past several years. They mistakenly think more-more-more Federal money is the solution.

As if that worked in schools!

Wait until the illegals...mostly military-age males...get restless and begin to run amok! They will invade feminists' “bonus holes” like they have our borders.

The trouble is, most lessons are learned belatedly and concretely while most citizens and their leaders live “abstractly.” Certainly that's the case politically. Being a “sanctuary city” is all fun-and-games until the buses arrive. Then it's too late.

Plus where will this endless “free” Federal money come from? Millions of illegal aliens are now on the dole, paying no taxes. Many will permanently remain so. Those who work will often do so off-the-books, sending money back to their real homelands.

Also, Liberals tend to ignore the rot infesting America. They'll be surprised if/when it suddenly collapses.

They also think Trumpers will remain infinitely patient. They won't.

Liberals are also confident that if provoked Trumpers do ever fight back, "the military" will kibosh them. They forget that...

...millions of Trumpers are themselves veterans;

...Don's supporters own 434,000,000 guns and know how to use them;

...any who attack them will have families: their homes can be doxed if need be; and

...many current GIs will refuse to fire on their fellow countrymen...or will join them.

Any new civil war will end in disunity.

The original Civil War (1861-5) killed 2% of the US population. And that involved mostly soldiers using now-archaic weapons. Even so, that would mean 6,805,350 dead today: 17 times what we lost in 4 years of World War II. That's without considering how much more deadly weapons are now.

Liberals also think Trumpers would openly and overtly run amok if Don doesn't become 47. It's more likely that his supporters will respond covertly and/or go Bud Light. That is, "not do." If MAGA truckers went on strike for just one month, chimpinated cities would burn, baby, burn.

Blacks are also too dense/blind to see that browns (both Gandhis and Aztecs) are replacing them. What use are lazy, unejimicated niggarians going to do when Paco outworks him and Indira out-thinks him?

As for Whites becoming a minority:

First, they will always be a majority-minority.

Second, they were “minorities” on plantations...but still ran 'em.

Third, Whites have always eventually triumphed.

In sharp contrast, the exceptionally reckless and aggressive Neocons have gained complete mastery over the political and media levers that control both our political parties, and therefore they easily pull the strings of the elected officials who nominally govern us. Their years of determined NATO pressure against Russia have already provoked the bloody Ukraine war, the most devastating European conflict in more than three generations, while they have launched an assault on China that is now only just barely short of becoming military.

One thing you can do right now is call the Capitol Switchboard (202) 224-3121, ask to be connected to the offices of your senators and House representative, and tell them to Vote NO on any further funding for the war in Ukraine, including and especially the $24 billion supplemental recently requested by the administration.

Then get your friends to do the same.

Ron writes beautifully as usual and is on the money here for the most part though he plays the role of a sewer-tourist by citing Tucker Carlson's X post (formerly Twitter) which slanders Obama by overlooking to mention that source Larry Sinclair is an ex-con felon. (Don't fret, I dislike Obama more than anyone who ever lived, but fair is fair).

That said, Ron does allow the "Roosevelt Dead!" wall poster directly behind the little stinking billionaire Swanson fortune heir's ugly lying head to be visible. Telling us to be on our guard? Or that Ron's another far far right carnivorous Republican who favors eliminating Social Security, securities trade regulation (already accomplished under Clinton), and who would have preferred not to have opposed Hitler and even Tojo?

You're a rich rich rich rich rich rich-boy Ron, and entitled to your blog and I am grateful, more than a wee bit, for your very open-minded policy on free speech and written communication even though I'm pretty sure you're an NSA & FBI front (not in the way the peons think it's done, if they were of the princely world you inhabit they'd understand it isn't done the way mentally deranged conspiracy theorists imagine) because they too are fascist pig capitalist scum who want the []iggers and Jews turned into agricultural manure and soap, and to be honest I can't say I entirely disagree with such ideas entirely.

The thing is, and Derbyshire should know this too you'd think, everyone with any sense has known for many years that "American power no longer prefers electoral solutions." Even President Jimmy Carter acknowledged it publicly over a decade ago. For a former President, Governor of Georgia and Annapolis graduate to say that, well, it ought to tell you something. He also said he didn't think the republic would return but if it did, it would require the passage of over 50 years time. But more sophisticated people than Jimmy Carter (and you by far far far) such as Gore Vidal had been trying to explain to the peanut farmers and galleries that it's always been that way.

The Telegraph article, like so much similar garbage to be found in the Guardian, the Chew Pork Slymes and the Washington Post Toasties are all about control over the message . They still have considerable influence over government employees, university and college professors and bought and paid-for pro$titicians.

But the primary targets of these duplicitous rags are all about keeping the overworked and underpaid general public bedizened by bullshit.

Along with the talking heads on boobtoob noose; these organs of the ownership of the Deep $tate and its various on the take appendages are all duty-bound to maintain the mirage, thus keeping the natives from becoming restless.

Do bear in mind that the greatest fear on the part of the ruling Bank$ter “elite” is that the current deterioration becomes totally OUT OF CONTROL. Thus, they promote fear because they themselves are fearful of their possible fate should those media-mesmerized morons wake up and smell the coffee.

Thus, the latest iteration of the Plandemic “peril” ...along with new lockdowns and imposition of a digital currency regime...all signs of growing desperation.

In the Twitter clip, Carlson specifically says Larry Sinclair is a felon. I don't trust Carlson, but this brief clip seemed more sincere than some of his other bits I have watched. He caveated his statements enough to protect himself in case someone comes after him.

I agree that things in the upper echelons of power have probably always worked the same way. The illusion of a free media led people in the 20th century to believe in a fairy tale of how the world works. This belief took hold despite (or because of?) widespread appreciation of yellow journalism, acceptance of massive censorship in all wars and ho-hum toleration of pervasive propaganda during the Cold War. Unfortunately a century of ubiquitous public education has dumbed down people so much that the fairy tale is no even longer necessary. The game is all about power and those wielding the power are mostly out of sight. The media is a clown show and few people care or even notice.

The real wierd thing about this whole scenario about wanting Crimea is rather strange . Let's go back to 2008 -9 – 10 etc before the Maidan and look at who the key oligarchs/politicians that owned Ukraine and we will see Jew Majority of Ukrainians, Russians and some others in the Eastern Europe countries. Yes, I'm sure the Biden/Clinton/Obama crime families were incognito . But the Oligarchs already owned all of Ukraine including Crimea and pre Maidan , there was no big problem or power moves in Crimea – it was not ramping up any military or political rah rah rahs. And Crimea voted usually pro Russian but you are talkin 1 million votes – max.

The jews had it made in Ukraine except for one thing – they didn't rig the elections good enough and Yanukovych won, and he was very corrupt but pro Russian. One has to realize that on the Ukraine side there were few rules in making money, and on the Russian side there are Rules. That's why there were many Russian/ Ukrainian companies and why the Washington Crime syndicate loved Ukraine. This also was a place that some US Contractors were working in a – I recall Bechtel and a couple others. Crimea was really laid back – back then. Russia didn't play the Alfa Male because they had sovereign Sevastopol but everyone knew they had Crimea's back, including the sleepy underfunded, Ukrainian military.

So Pres. Yanuk was playing the Clinton " pay to play " but he made the mistake of playing too many countries against each other , as in looking for deals from the EU, USA, Russia, China, etc. , all at the same time. The E U promised the typical pie in the sky but in the end Russia and China presented the best deals, but by then the snipers showed up and the rest is Historia.

I believe that the Jew Oligarchs from East Europe, Ukraine and Russia may have had a better plan , but the Jew NeoCons and MIC/Intel had a diferent scam and took over Kiev. My 2 rubbles worth.

Obama's Republican opponent in that bitter campaign had been Sen. John McCain, and perhaps we can now better understand why the Democrats were so unwilling to make use of the shocking evidence regarding the latter's own very sordid Vietnam War record:

Was their unwillingness to highlight McCain's role as a Communist propagandist during the war not sufficiently explained by McCain's dad's coverup of the Liberty incident? The Democrats and the media were maybe informed that McCain could reveal the details of that deliberate Israeli attack, so they refrained from revealing his wartime record. But of course if Obama was known to be cavorting with men and smoking crack, then that would definitely be enough to dissuade the media from this stratagem.

For anyone who cares to try this, an experiment – for SEVEN full days, go completely without ANY electronic media/entertainment devices of any type. If you want to read a physical paper-stock book, newspaper, magazine...fine, but nothing that uses electricity.

Of course this could realistically only be done on the “honor system”, so for anyone claiming to have done it we would have only his word. The only point is that if such an experiment was attempted, very few – if any – people could do it. Many excuses for failure would involve “work-related” whatever it may be, but I recall that just two or so generations ago, even doctors functioned without having to use computers on a daily basis.

Many of those Ukrainian refugees will be utterly frantic. They face almost certain deaths, if not from the Russians, then from the Banderistas who hate them because they are “deserters”... or even worse if they happen to come from Russian ethnic parts of Ukraine.

The more perceptive ones would have reasoned that Poland would pull such a stunt and therefore headed off to greener pastures in lands where the governments are not quite as insane as the one in Warsaw.

The Democrats and the media were maybe informed that McCain could reveal the details of that deliberate Israeli attack, so they refrained from revealing his wartime record.

It's hard to be sure, but I lean against that theory.

I'm sure that when McCain originally came home in 1972, his father called in that political chit to protect him. The Liberty attack had occurred only a few years earlier, nobody was yet aware of it, and I'm sure the elder McCain had lots of secrets he could have revealed.

But by 2008, the situation was entirely different. The elder McCain had been dead for more than a quarter-century, taking to the grave his personal account of the cover-up. Anyway, numerous books and articles about the Liberty attack had eventually come out by then, so I doubt there would have been much remaining leverage in the story. I really think it might have taken an AAA-class blackmail item to balance McCain's war record, and Tucker Carlson may have now revealed what it was.

Just today, Brian Berletic hosted the two Alexanders from the Duran. They delved deeply into the recent firing of Ukraine's Defense Minister and his replacement by a relative unknown, a Crimean Tatar who hung with the Ukies. Perhaps the most telling conversation revolved around the fact that the Neocons, who call the foreign policy shots on behalf of the Talmudist Agenda, were and are totally absorbed and fixated about Crimea.

Why, the Crimea mania on the part of the Neocons?

Simple enough. Crimea is Russia's Florida, Arizona and Southern California all wrapped into a single peninsula dangling into the Black Sea. High-end mansions for the Talmudist elites along with nicely located condominiums as well as hotels and rentals all along that southern coast. Those Yentas around Miami Beach and the Florida Gold Coast would not only be extremely envious...they would convince papa to make the move to New Khazaria.

AshkenaZi Jews of all descriptions, particularly the historically informed ones, would drool at the prospect of total control over that blessed peninsula...a place where hostile Arabs are not staring at those border-wires from three different directions...and then there's the Iranians, whom Israel wants to wipe out.

New Khazaria is the Talmudist wet-dream. Crimea is their current iteration of the Promised Land. After all, some of their ancestors lived there a thousand years ago. It's quite possible that Viccious Nudelman's cookie lady "Yats is our man" and “fuck the EU” antics, already some nine years ago was already dreaming of a nice little chunk of the Crimean shore where she could be the mistress of a thousand Goyish slaves.

The Agency holds agency of all other Feral government departments. This was made clear in Gary Webb's book which outlined how the CIA and their Cubano/Gusano henchmen, along with the Nicaraguan Contras, effortlessly smuggled by air literally ton upon ton of Zelensky's favorite white powder into first, Florida and thence to south L.A., where Freeway Ricky converted the powder into crack...which then was distributed to ghettos all across the fruited plain by Crips Gangstas.

Both the DEA (as part of the Department of "Justice") and the Department of State raised concerns about all this evident criminal activity. Seems like agents from the Agency had little talks with some of their honchos and suddenly...everything was hunky-dory.

However...The Agency does not have full, exclusive agency. They manage the show, but those who run the rackets give them their marching orders.

Guess who runs those rackets.

Crimea doesn't have the prime farm land like the Donbas and Dneiper areas, and it doesn't have the water. Khazaria reached all the way up to the Volga.

Perhaps that is all part of some kind of an Eretz Khazaria project, but I don't think for a second that the Rabbis will be satisfied after they get their grubby hands on Crimea.

It is important also to note that the bloody ritual sacrifice of 500,000 or more Ukrainian young men and millions living in exile is also part of the project. Jews and genocidal civil wars they incite fit together like peas in a pod.

He wrote the NSA was excited in the early 1980s that they found a way to intercept wireless phone calls between Soviet leaders, mostly from their limos.

I've done some googling and found out that the date you give is wrong. What you are referring to is a program named Gamma Gupy — or, according to other sources, a program named Broadside, with Gamma Gupy being the name of the intelligence it gathered. It was carried out in the late 60s and ended abruptly in 1971 when that program leaked through journalist Jack Anderson which prompted the Soviets to start encrypting their conversations.

The above information is easily found in numerous sites by googling “Gamma Gupy”, optionally together with “Broadside”; here are two sources:

Yes. It's a brilliant point. Dying regimes throw up ancient leaders with ancient ideas. Ours is no different.

There's a Seinfeld episode where Jerry discovers that his grandpa is a chronic shoplifter. He calls the guy out on it and Grandpa says, "It doesn't matter. If they catch me leaving the store with something, I just say I'm old and easily confused. They always let me go." Joe Biden isn't the least bit concerned that he's unfit to be President. He's an evil old man, a shoplifter of our souls and our values and when it's all over he can just say, "I was old and easily confused. It's not my fault."

What really matters for Russia's future:

Russia's massive brain drain is ravaging the economy – these stunning figures show why it will soon be smaller than Indonesia's

Filip De Mott

Sep 3, 2023, 5:30 AM PDT

- Russia's war on Ukraine has fueled a massive brain drain that will hobble Putin's economy.
- By some estimates, 80% of those who have left Russia are college educated, and 86% are under the age of 45.
- Russia's GDP, as measured by purchasing power parity, will fall behind Indonesia's in 2026.

Russia's war on Ukraine triggered a massive brain drain, and the toll it will take on the economy is coming into clearer focus.

Since Vladimir Putin launched the invasion in February 2022, emigration out of Russia has exploded, with some estimates putting the exodus at 1 million people. A recent analysis from the policy platform Re: Russia narrowed the number to 817,000-922,000.

That's contributed to a record labor shortage, with 42% of industrial firms unable to find enough workers in July, up from 35% in April.

The composition of Russia's exodus also points to the best and brightest fleeing the country. While a barrage of Western sanctions incentivized many to leave for economic reasons, others fled to avoid military service, skewing the numbers toward younger Russians.

Workers under the age of 35 now account for less than 30% of the labor force, the lowest on record going back 20 years.

1/What is Brezhnev most afraid of?

– That the Chinese will learn to fight like the Jews, and the Jews to multiply like the Chinese.

2/- How many Jews are there? – asks Brezhnev Kosygin.

– Three, four million.

“And if we let them go, how many will?”

– Ten, twelve million.

3/Nixon asked God when unemployment would end in the United States. Upon learning that in fifty years, he grieved.

– I will not live ... – he muttered.

Brezhnev asked God when prosperity would come to the Soviet Union.

– I will not live ... – muttered God.

4/Ford and Brezhnev met.

– You know, Lonka, – says Ford – I love to collect jokes about myself. I already have a whole album of them.

– I collect them too, – nods Brezhnev – I already have a whole labor camp of them.

We would have started the Ukies against Russia by 2018 if Hillary had won.

Agreed. I think the plan of our Neocon friends was to get the party started for the 100th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, which would have been in October of 2017.

It probably had some kabbalistic significance that was thwarted. The fact that HRC's humiliating loss prevented this likely accounts, at least in part, for their demonic rage ever since.

You are kind of mixing your metaphors here.

You blame “boomers” then you shift to the neocons.

Which is it?

“The boomer mime is a deep state fabricated distraction talking point intended to hide the identity of the real agents of change since 1960, the American Hebrew hegemony.”

Boomers, like ALL of our citizens, have been lied to since they were children.

Know nothing idiots blame boomers and women and negroes and the Jesuits and the Chicoms.

Do boomers run the FED? Are boomers the major donors to both parties? Do boomers run Hollywood and the media? Do boomers control our domestic and foreign policy? Are boomers 60% of all university presidents? Are boomers the richest most influential group on earth? Do boomers run the three letter agencies? Are boomers promoting the war on Russia?

Old white people, boomers, have no voice whatsoever. I can't think of even one policy from the last fifty five years that has benefited boomers.

You don't know what the fuck you are talking about.

US and USSR are different in this regard.

In the USSR, the government controlled everything and ran the whole economy.

In a way, the collapse was orchestrated by certain factions of the Soviet elites because they grew tired of the burden of running everything. It was no fun.

In the US, businessmen, big and small, run the economy whereas the politicians just make speeches, discuss laws & policies, and take bribes(donations). It's a lot more fun to be a Western politician than a Soviet one who had to overlook and manage the national economy, a huge burden.

A bunch of Soviet elites began to think the end of communism would mean (1) no more burden of running the economy by the government officials (2) the well-connected in the Soviet hierarchy would grab most of the loot in the post-communist order.

The collapse of the Soviet Union wasn't a people's revolution but an inside job done by the elites.

Because the government ran the economy, the degradation of the state meant the failure of the economy and the collapse of the communist system had seismic effects on all of society.

But no matter how degraded the US government becomes, most of the economy is still in the hands of the private sector.

Granted, state policy does impact the business sector. The policy of the Fed for example, but then some argue the Fed is really a private entity that pretends to be 'federal'.

Also, contra the libertarian argument of the state putting its thumb on the private sector, it is equally true that big money from the business sector has great influence on government policy. Big Pharma and regulatory capture, for instance. And how Wall Street got huge bailouts despite having preached ruthless market dynamics forever.

Also, contrary to the simple narrative of the state forcing Big Tech to censor certain voices, Big Tech is dominated by the same kind of people who run the Deep State. They share the same politics and biases.

The biggest threat to the US is Jewish Power neurosis. So much of US agenda and policy in government institutions and big industry is predicated on Jewish Globalist Zionists keeping the power in the West and exerting influence around the world. The Ukraine War is a Jewish War. So were Iraq and Syria. BLM and Antifa were unleashed into the streets to cause terror to send a message to whites: "Don't mess with the prevailing anti-white orthodoxy." Open borders is to boost Diversity against any chance of white majority power. Blackrock's ESG is about using Diversity against whites. It's not the case that Blackrock is leftist or for true equality as it has no use for BDS or Palestinian rights. The riots of 2020 and the hysterical reaction to Covid were orchestrated by Jewish Power mainly to unseat Trump.

More than senile politicians, this tribal neurosis is at the heart of the US sickness. US had incapacitated politicians before, even at the top. Woodrow Wilson was a goner for his last year and half. FDR was very sick in the final yrs, and Eleanor did much of the job.

The problem today is less the senility of Biden and McConnell than the vicious vitality of the relatively young and hale Jewish operatives at all levers of government whose worldview is predicated not on any concept of National Interest but Tribal Domination.

Indeed, post-communist Russia in the 90s lost its chance and fared worse than under communism precisely because it was run on the same anti-principles that govern the US today: Whatever is good for Jewish domination. Russia of the 90s was a capitalist gangster paradise for the Tribe.

In that sense, Biden today is more like Yeltsin of the 90s than the old Soviet leaders of the 80s who, by the way, was followed by the young reformer Gorbachev... who managed to make things worse.

History says stagnation + freedom is even worse than mere stagnation + repression. Stagnation can be managed by repression but stagnation + freedom means people freely get to gripe about stagnation without anything meaningful being done about it.

Syrian War also happened not because Assad got more repressive but less so. He allowed more freedom but not enough change to please everyone. Thus, freedom led to more crises and bitterness, which could be exploited by color revolution-instigators.

Jews hate Putin because they had Russia in the palm of their hands but it was taken away by Putin the nationalist.

Jews have the US in the palm of their hands and regard any show of nationalist-populism as having the same effect that Putinism had on Russia.

Given that the top leaders of the USSR were so obviously enfeebled, analysts recognized that they were hardly the real decision-makers of the declining Soviet colossus that they nominally controlled....

Brezhnev was chosen precisely because he was a consensus-builder within the broader Politburo; Krushchev was too much of a loose canon for the Politburo.

Medical science has obviously advanced quite a bit in the last four decades, but I think the total Western domination of the global media is a more important factor in this large difference of perceptions. Is Biden really so much sharper than Brezhnev and Chernenko, or is it simply that our media is better at hiding his inability from most of the general public?

Pravda and Izvestia were amateur-hour compared to Anglo-American media.

The Sovs managed to break up without nuclear conflagration (so far)... the US doesn't have the statesmen to repeat their success in unwinding an unhappy marriage without killing the kids.

A lot of people are of the mind that the 81 million vote thing is just a massive joke. No one believes it. That the number is massively off type of thing. All kinds of elections-data-signals (comparative voting pattern and such), indicates just that. I think Paul Craig Roberts thinks along these lines, for instance.

Maybe those that think like that will be vindicated when these elections-data-signals return to baseline, for the 2024 cycle (no new voter-pattern-effects actually apparent in data signals?, so what happened in 2020, then?). But no one is going to believe anything on any side, pretty much, I think, especially if Trump is the candidate. How does he think he is going to navigate this? It seems like it is fubar. This gives me alot of anxiety (because it is just another sign as to how quickly everything seems to be spinning out of control overall in the west). Maybe it is kinda good not to live in America at the moment. But I really hope America will come out good. I love America. America is just full of great people, in the main. Also I hope no one shoots Trump. He is quite the character, ... let him live please, even if he is just floating out there without a plan, ... like how the hell does he think he is gonna navigate this? he would need to start civil war type action immediately after triumphing, if that is even in any way possible, (i.e. – drain the DC swamp, fire everybody pretty much, which you can't do if you don't have a detailed plan inclusive of replacement personnel already lined-up, new organizational principles for these new bureaucracies to replace these rotten ones etc. etc.). Trump's base would absolutely demand this if he wins, and this base is growing weary and impatient all round, and I don't think will accept any wink wink nudge nudge, if Trump tries that after a win and doesn't kill the swamp ..., his base may well kill him, then. What the heck is Trump thinking as to how he is gonna navigate all this?

Maybe he will purposely lose the actual election (after winning the nomination) and do it on purpose, to sooth the collective soul of the nation, avoid civil war, potentially save his own skin, and kick the can down the road on all this gloabist stuff which would mean, I think, then, the technocrats win, maybe even fucking the billionaire pole of the globalist dyad, by the technocratic aspect (probably the technocrats' sweetest dream) is in the works. Under this scenario the CIA works the plan, to screw the billionaire aspect, to take much of their actual loot, to give muchly to the technocratic aspect, but as well enriching the covert coffers of the CIA

“So in today’s America, all those confused, befuddled Soviet leaders whom we regarded with such scorn would be youthful political figures compared to our own President Joe Biden, currently seeking reelection at the age of 80, or his leading rival, former President Donald Trump, age 77”

And Jinky Joe & Dashing Don are youthful political figures compared to some of the preferred political pundits cited in this breezy article. Seymour Hersh is 86, Ray McGovern is 84, Michael Hudson is 84; Douglas MacGregor is ‘only’ 70; John Mearsheimer is 76 this year; even Roger Cohen at 68 is older than Andropov was. So if this is about ‘gerentocracy’, it cuts both ways. But not to worry, once the geezers are all gone soon enough, America should be in great hands with the likes of adolescent AOC & Ilhan Omar & Jon Ossoff et.al. running the shitshow.

@emerging majority

New Khazaria is the Talmudist wet-dream. Crimea is their current iteration of the Promised Land. After all, some of their ancestors lived there a thousand years ago. It's quite possible that Viccious Nudelman's cookie lady "Yats is our man" and "fuck the EU" antics, already some nine years ago was already dreaming of a nice little chunk of the Crimean shore where she could be the mistress of a thousand Goyish slaves.

It seems farfetched – but then so did the WMD, the 9/11 and the Covid planned and executed "events".

The whole Ukrainian affair + the 500.000 deaths in the last 18 months could in fact be a new NATO protected Homeland project finally owned and exploited by Black Rock for the benefit of Jewish elite settlers.

Out of interest, Hitler had a similar idea:

(20) "We'll supply the Ukrainians with scarves, glass beads and everything that colonial peoples like. The Germans – this is essential – will have to constitute among themselves a closed society, like a fortress. The least of our stable-lads must be superior to any native." (11) "We'll take the Southern part of the Ukraine, especially the Crimea, and make it an exclusively German colony. There'll be no harm in pushing out the population that's there now..."

Hitler's Table Talk (20) 17th September 1941 + (11) 27th July 1941

He was also thinking along racist Imperialist lines.

I hasn't occurred to the Ukrainians, but their best bet is to be friends with the Russians. They were offered a good deal in 2014. They foolishly rejected it when New-Land/Kagan and the CIA got involved with their bribes, violence and empty promises.

@Liborio Guaso

Throughout history, peoples have colonized, exploited and taken the resources of weaker nations, Chinese, Arabs, Mongols and even Blacks and American Indian tribes, the only difference is when whites did it, they did it more efficiently and on a grander scale.

While having colonizing them, whites also improved the living standards of most of the peoples and gave them the many benefits of more advanced civilization. As with anything else in life, there were upsides and downsides to colonialism, but people like you only dwell on the downside, blaming every problem in your life on the white man's colonialism that ended in most third-world nations many years ago.

Fast forward to our present time, the "colonialism" (for want of a better word) that the US has been pushing on the world for the past 70 years hasn't been to anyone's benefit, except the US. The people who once benefited from US money and direction in the late 1940's early 1950's, (Europe), now have the US millstone around their necks, pushing their faces harder and harder into the dirt.

The constant taste of dirt is now causing many Europeans to wake up and see the US interference in their affairs as nothing more than meddling and a grave insult to their natural rights as nations to run their own affairs. The time to kick the US meddlers out of Europe and European affairs has never been so urgent.

Since one of UR's erratic commenters has posted the following comment and purported quote on this thread and you are well read on the origins of WW2 and Hitler's ideas, preferences and decision making I seek your comment on its authenticity and accuracy.

Out of interest, Hitler had a similar idea:

(20) "We'll supply the Ukrainians with scarves, glass beads and everything that colonial peoples like. The Germans – this is essential – will have to constitute among themselves a closed society, like a fortress. The least of our stable-lads must be superior to any native." (11) "We'll take the Southern part of the Ukraine, especially the Crimea, and make it an exclusively German colony. There'll be no harm in pushing out the population that's there now..."

Hitler's Table Talk (20) 17th September 1941 + (11) 27th July 1941

It is decades since I became vaguely aware of Hitler's Table Talk. On the face of it it is a vital part of understanding the years 1933,-1945 as is much of what you, in the shape of reviving interest in David Irving have done because Goebbels' diaries e.g. are amongst critical evidence for understanding Hitler and the Nazis, not least wrt Jews and Slavs...

I think that they were just a more civil society than we are today. The violence of WW2 was still fresh in the minds of many, and they didn’t want to repeat it.

When the US starts to break up, the government’s response will be analogous to using a sledgehammer to dismantle a bomb. hundreds of thousands or millions will die due to the belief of many non-whites that violence is the only way to get what you want. Violence begets violence.

| Senile Biden won because of two factors...

Biden won? Nobody knows who actually won the 2020 election. Nor the one in 2016, either.

Both political parties have refused to mandate secure and verifiable voting systems, and have chosen instead to pretend that “results” from uncheckable Computer Systems used to tally the votes are reliable. So long as everyone goes along with the charade, all is well. Because of his oversized ego, Trump chose to rock the boat, despite accepting the play-pretend election results of 2016 when he supposedly “won”.

Let’s go back to very localized voting places using paper ballots placed into transparent boxes. Have a bunch of local volunteers from both political parties hand-count the ballots while watched by multiple TV cameras. Afterwards securely store those ballots so they’ll be available for any desired recounts.

Localized elections would do away with current moves to “centralize” voting places. No longer would people have to drive many miles, then wait in enormous lines exposed to all kinds of weather. I’d also add a system where an aspiring voter has his face and thumb simultaneously photographed after which that citizen writes down his/her Social Security Number on the images when he verifies the pictures belong to him. I believe this would do away with the millions of Illegal Aliens voting in California. Bye-Bye Democratic Supermajority there. It would also crimp the Snowbirds who vote once in the North, then high-tail it to Florida to vote a second time. It would also put an end to the crappy Voter ID schemes designed to make it very hard for poor people with the wrong skin colors to vote.

As important as voting is supposed to be, let's also make the selected day of voting a National Holiday.

Here is what Ron Unz has written about Wog in the past:

But your willingness to simply ignore all this direct personal testimony simply proves once again that you're just a dishonest shill.

I'm busy with my other things and don't have time to waste arguing about the Holocaust with you, especially since you're just some random activist who just showed up here.

So now Wog shows up on this thread about Brics and post war USA/USSR and once again spreads lies about the fraudulent table talk in order to transform the thread into yet another pissing match about the Holofraud.

There is one area directly related to this thread where Wog might have been able to provide some useful and interesting input from his own first hand experience: Senility and dementia.

As with anything else in life, there were upsides and downsides to colonialism, but people like you only dwell on the downside,

The same thing can be said of coloured migration into the USA.

Throughout history, peoples have colonized, exploited and taken the resources of weaker nations, Chinese, Arabs, Mongols and even Blacks and American Indian tribes, the only difference is when whites did it, they did it more efficiently and on a grander scale.

Your last sentence is certainly right. But to suggest that colonialism is universal is not correct.

There were plenty of cultures who had the same opportunities, massive power and technological advantage over weaker ones, but yet did not colonise.

Excellent Bosi – You’ve been doing your research. I did run into those jews that wear dredies back in Kiev when I traveled in and out – some were even from Nwe York but I didn’t think much of it since they have a couple ” shrines” there. I would image that once Kolomoisky and the others started to build their monuments to the Jews in Днепропетровск they flocked there along with the newest political parties. When Israel let in all those Russian Jews , they knew they would have carte blanche access to Ukraine, Russia etc – anytime they needed – and this could be Russia’s downfall.

Great observation – There was a small radical TaTar organization when I was working in Yalta but they stuck to the mountains, however I ran into a carload of younger ones that was ” not polite” shall we say and they certainly didn’t like my foreign ass in Their country. When Russia was voted in , their FSB broke up all the radical groups and sent their leaders packing to Ukraine. I don’t see the Crimean TaTars hooking up with the Jews but the Ukie ones would. Remember, the Crimean and Russian TaTar have alot of the businesses and land in Crimea.

That’s a good viewpoint on the N Y jews – needing a place to run to once the One World Oder gets serious about destroying the US. They lost Syria which would have been a good hide out since it has a lot of coastline instead of arab borders. As I’ve said before , once this war is over, we will really see , who ends up with what – in Ukraine and where. I think Russia will make Odecca a neutral zone that the Jews can still run, which means they will still own much of the farmlands but – we’ll see. Thanks

I've read David Irving's "Hitler's War" and found it solid historical research. This is what he said about Table Talk:

“The Table Talks' content is more important in my view than Hitler's Mein Kampf, and possibly even more than his Zweites Buch (1928). It is unadulterated Hitler. He expatiates on virtually every subject under the sun, while his generals and private staff sit patiently and listen, or pretend to listen, to the monologues.”

I trust David Irving on this.

“The U.S. should welcome the Ukrainian “deserters” since they are the smarter segment of the population”

Would you like a bride? If you're Mormon, you can order more than one!

In War-Torn Ukraine, Business Is Booming For Mail-Order Brides

Inside the morally ambiguous world of Ukraine's mail-order bride industry.

By Lucy Sarret

25/08/2023 02:51pm BST

“Ukrainian brides are a different breed of women, something many men appreciate. A woman from Ukraine loves and respects her man, and she will do anything she can for him. These women are extremely feminine, and you will enjoy having such a beautiful creature. If you are nostalgic for the simpler times, browse through our vast selection of Ukrainian brides.”

This is how self-described ‘mail-order bride’ website RoseBrides advertises Ukrainian women as an attractive marriage prospect, highlighting why Western men should take a particular interest.

Mail-order brides are by no means a new phenomenon – the industry dates the whole way back to 1614 in the US when companionless men on the frontier would place adverts in the East looking for women to join them.

And as popularity grew (long before the advent of online giants), mail-order brides could be found in agency catalogues and magazine ads, armed only with their glossy, glamorous headshots.

Prominent Potomac swamp pols choose to expire in public, rather retiring with the scant respect and dignity they deserve. People who are emotional dwarfs and intellectually crippled frequently become obsessed with acquiring power and money, and once possessing them they cannot let go.

It isn't only men like Reagan, Trump, Biden and McConnell who have decided to “die in the saddle,” because Nancy Pelosi and Diane Feinstein, conspicuously afflicted with dementia, have refused to go quietly.

Money and power are also touted as aphrodisiacs by those who who might know, not including most men who have had to resort to using traditional medicines, and more recently, Viagra.

There is a strong case for compulsory retirement.

I never said zionism and jewish mercantilism was of any benefit to the world. What I said was that European powers from the 15th century to the early 20th century brought benefits to the colonies that lead to improvements in their lives. Being introduced to a more varied diet helped many peoples, the introduction of western law and order ended or cut down on many tribal practices such as headhunting, cannibalism, blood sacrifice, slavery etc.

You may not know it or refuse to believe that Europeans were the first people in the history of the world to make slavery illegal. The jews didn't control every aspect of European affairs as you'd like to think. They're not gods, they're just a bunch of highly networked troublemakers, who've been observing peoples for a long time and know how to exploit their weaknesses.

Have you ever been polled ? I haven't . Nor do I know anyone who's been polled , ever . Who's doing the polling ? Who are they calling ?

I suppose the answer might be who has the majority of land lines ? People over 60 . I don't know anyone who still uses a land line other than older folks . Have a couple of aunts and uncles who are in their 70s that have them and they voted Brandon . However to my knowledge they've never been polled . These discussions do come up and I've asked people many times and all of them say nope , never a call .

At this point I have more faith in a X poll , the artist formerly known as Twitter. I have no faith in the MSM's town halls with undecided voters . What a load of shit , there are no undecided voters today. The rhetoric is Brandon VS Trump 2.0, based on this people are already decided .

No way in hell Trump won't get the GOP nod . Unless of course they get him on something . Who knows ?

No way I believe Trump and the star of The Walking Dead are tied right now . Out of the 3 or 4 people I know who voted Biden all of them are throughly disappointed . As they should be . This isn't a plug for Trump , it's just reality .

None of it matters anyway as none of them are going to do what's right by our country.

Regarding Larry Sinclair, that story was pushed by Webster Tarpley in a number of articles at the time and including an appearance at the National Press Club to which shortly afterwards Beau Biden, the AG of Delaware had Larry arrested on some old charge...

Tarpley of course wrote the Unauthorized Biography of George W. Bush with Anton Chaitkin.

In 2008 Tarpley came out during the primary season with Obama The Postmodern Coup: The Making of a Manchurian Candidate, that recognized that Obama was a suave zombie who was a creation of the same apparatus of the oligarchy around svengali's like Brzinski, whose aim was world domination through destruction of Moscow and Beijing. The book starts with a quote from Putin, and is the first book in print to situate the war we are in.

Tarpley also wrote a voluminous Obama: The Unauthorized Biography.

Larry Sinclair was pursued as it was imperative to stop Obama who had surpassed H.Clinton as public enemy number one.

Tarpley would become a big critic of Trump, especially after he was sued by Melania for suggesting that she was just a whore...

Tarpley has seemed to forgotten his prescience regarding the war against Russia that he correctly forecast and is now allowing his intellectual prowess to to defending Bidenomics

Sure, I finally read Table Talk a year or two ago, and it generally seemed a pretty plausible summary of Hitler's private discussions. David Irving seems to regard it as reasonably reliable and I've also seen portions of it regularly cited by various mainstream historians.

Speaking of Kolomoisky, what's up with this?

Kyiv court orders detention of Israeli-Ukrainian oligarch on corruption charges

Igor Kolomoisky to be held for two months for alleged fraud and money-laundering; defense lawyers say he will appeal detention but won't post bail of nearly $14 million

Kolomoisky is a banking magnate from Dnipro and a major funder of Jewish causes and the Chabad movement in Ukraine. He holds citizenship in Cyprus and Israel as well in Ukraine, where he was born.

Kolomoisky is thought to be the main financier of the flashy, 22-story Jewish community center built in Dnipro in 2012. He has also poured millions of dollars of his own wealth into preparing Ukraine's army to fight Russia since Moscow's 2014 invasion of Crimea, and even briefly acted as the head of the Dnipro region during that crisis.

Kolomoisky had an Airport in Crimea and sued Russia for access to it 2016, not long after Maidan.

Is Ukraine purging Kolomoisky on behalf of Russia or the US?

Below the more is a cool clip of what could be a '68 GMC 4x4 pickup. Is that where you get your handle?

Hi Ron,

I wanted to check how large this BRICS block was becoming for myself without looking at third parties. I compiled some economic, population, and energy data about all the BRICS countries involved using recent datasets, including countries which are not in BRICS or the BRICS expansion, but have applied to join BRICS. They are sorted in each category by GDP PPP.

The striking thing to me was just how large this bloc's potential is to influence global energy markets. If they can figure out a reliable and trustless system for currency settlement, they could easily create an alternative to the dollar for the majority of international commerce.

| David Irving seems to regard it as reasonably reliable

In your recent article titled “Hitler, Churchill, the Holocaust, and the War in Ukraine” there was a long debate between yourself and Hadding concerning the accuracy of David Irving’s description of the events leading up to and during Krystallnacht. I don’t want to restart that debate, but I find it quite interesting that you qualified your belief in Irving’s coverage of TT as “pretty plausible”. I would call this “damning with faint praise”.

Codoh has a revisionist article that casts doubt on the accuracy of “Table Talks”, which combined with your luke warm acceptance of its validity casts even more doubt on the reasons why Wog would drag it into this thread.

@Joe Paluka

The main difference between Covid and Chernobyl is that Chernobyl was not intentional, Covid was planned out very carefully to do it's damage gradually, while making maximum profit for its creators and sponsors.

I believe ultimately it makes no difference. Both empires hit a wall due to their own internal problems. Covid and Chernobyl are the symptoms of a sick system, you cannot pretend to be a world leader without risking the health and wealth of your own citizens on continually more risky, ie self-destructive behavior.

There was a Soviet trade magazine on newsstands as the Chernobyl disaster occurred. It extolled the virtues of Soviet efficiency, as they cut maintenance costs that the capitalist imperial pigdogs still incurred in their immoral and failing system at their own nuke plants. It was the continual internal trimming that really took them down.

You can see this in the arms race, even at the conventional weapon level. The MiG-23 had big shoes to fill, it was the second attempt at a replacement for the venerable and successful MiG-21. However a close look at the 23 reveals some huge failures:

1) The intake design was simply ripped off photos and probably wreckage of the F-4 Phantom, including the adjustable grate to slow down incoming air. The two aircraft could not be more different, cutting and pasting whole components is not indicative of actual R&D.

2) The electronics of all the early -23s as well as 100% of the export models had crap avionics and in most cases the SAME RADAR as the MiG-21. This part of the aircraft was not addressed until its final versions, and resulted in continual weakness against western aircraft. This affected political situations all over the fringes of their failing empire including Africa (Cubans getting shot out of the air by RSA).

3) The engine mounts failed if attempting to throttle back too fast, past MACH-1, and sometimes this was patched by the pilot losing throttle control for certain speed brackets.

The thing honestly is a rocket ship for a single-engine aircraft, but that last flaw made pilots timid about speed in general and created too high a skill floor for foreign pilots to hurdle for basic competition against western pilots with aids such as digital electronics and all the situational awareness that came with it. Incidents like the two Sidra (Lybia) encounters show MiG-23 pilots without situational awareness, flying blindly into trouble. Their RWRs should have let them know when they were being painted with radar (ie. time to turn around).

Iran-Iraq war was a long slow stunning defeat for the MiG-23, three of them fell to one Phoenix missile from a Tomcat. Close formation for the win! It got to be that once the Iraqis detected a transponder for the F-14, they grounded their air forces out of fear.

As for us with covid, the actual components at work are from a different vector. We are so much more of a productive society than the Soviet Union was (we were sending them food so they wouldn't starve!), and one of the problems with that is we have the biggest and most virulent parasites in all human history. The level of their psychopathy is impossible for us little peons to imagine, and as such the imminent financial failure and government implosion are manifesting in huge cracks appearing in the system.

It's starting with health care, not surprising given how obsessed the entire west is with prolonging lives full of crappy eating and lifestyle decisions. We have built a Faustian Beast which is now hyper-focused on the biggest complainers, which in Canada is the old and infirm from all over the 2nd and 3rd world. The culture-wide obsession with deifying immigrants, has now passed onto the worship stage as the people financing the system are becoming slaves and second-class citizens of the holy newcomers.

This was hugely highlighted with covid, where the newcomers didn't have to get the shot for gov't benefits, didn't have to close the mosques, didn't have to comply with the mask rules, on and on and on.

Would anyone believe that flights from China and CHINA ONLY were allowed during the "crisis"?

Immigration is another clue to the health of the structure – if there truly is a climate crisis, why are we stuffing as many immigrants as possible (indeed more than possible) to adopt this evil planet-killing lifestyle?

The climate nonsense is another vector of the vultures circling – when you get all the voting women to believe in fairies and magic spells then you eventually will reap the fruits of mass psychology and the study of man such as Covid.

The more of this crap we believe in, the more we will get.

And that is our Chernobyl – a point that once we pass, we can never ever recover. It's all downhill from here, and steep. It's the thread that's pulled on, undoing the sweater of stable civilization.

America, Fuck Yeah...

HERE'S WHY THE LUFTWAFFE DUBBED THE ICONIC F-104 STARFIGHTER "WIDOW MAKER"

The Starfighter got off to a very bad start in Germany when, in Jun. 1962, four F-104s were practicing for the type's "introduction-into-service" display and crashed in formation, killing all four pilots

The first futuristic-looking F-104 Starfighter flew in early 1956 and with its long circular fuselage, sharply pointed nose, and tiny, thin wings, it looked every inch the best fighter in the world.

Designed by C. L. "Kelly" Johnson and his "Skunk Works," who developed some iconic combat-planes such as the U-2 and the SR-71 reconnaissance aircraft, the Lockheed F-104 was dubbed by the company as the "missile with a man in it" but by the Luftwaffe (German Air Force) and Marineflieger (German Navy) as the "widow maker."

In fact, as explained by Dr. Marshall Michel, 52nd Fighter Wing Historian in his article F-104: Germany's 'Widow Maker,' the F-104 sleek looks hid a multitude of flaws.

For instance its wings were so small they could hold neither the landing gear nor fuel, which all had to be stowed in the fuselage. However the small wings were necessary to give the Starfighter its excellent acceleration, rate of climb and top speed. By contrast the small wings gave the F-104 also a poor sustained turn performance and since the could not carry fuel, the aircraft had a very limited range.

Moreover the aircraft did not feature a useful radar, and its loadout was made only by a cannon and heat-seeking missiles, making it a day, clear weather-only fighter.

A recent book on the fraudulent “Table Talks”...

This ground-breaking book provides the first in-depth analysis and critical study of Hitler’s so-called table talks and their history, provenance, translation, reception, and usage.

Based on research in public and private archives in four countries, the book shows when, why, where, how, by and for whom the table talks were written, how reliable the texts are, and how historians should approach and use them. It reveals the crucial role of the mysterious Swiss Nazi Francois Genoud, as well as some very poor judgement from several famous historians in giving these dubious sources more credibility than they deserved. The book sets the record straight regarding the nature of these volumes as historical sources – proving inter alia The Testament to be a clever forgery – and aims to establish a new consensus on their meaning and impact on historical research into Hitler and the Third Reich.

There's been many mis-steps and failures in the century of manned aircraft, on all sides – but the Starfighter was perhaps the victim of unlimited budgets (see the F-111) and not the opposite.

It also has the historical distinction of seeing little to no actual action. And it was designed during that funny period of nuke-tipped tactics, developed due to a non-existent bomber threat.

The F-104 Starfighter was junk because it was poorly designed and was the lone export survivor of numerous like failures, fighters cut down to the nuts with small payloads such as the Delta Dagger and Delta Dart. Somehow foreign governments bought the thing (including mine) but its very weird and small era of SAC nuclear war simply never happened.

The MiG-23 is junk because it was sold to be in service against Mirage F-1s, F-14s, and other aircraft that were 10 years ahead of it. The fourth generation of fighter aircraft is when the gap between East and West was really opened up. By the time the Soviets had the MiG-29 Fulcrum out there, the empire had all but fallen – and their copy of the F-15 (they obtained the plans and made their own version), the Su-27 Flanker, didn't come out until after the Union fell.

All I can say that's good about the -23 is that it was the first of their fighters designed to be flown from dirty roads and had over-strength landing gear.

If the F-104 is junk, I cringe at the idea that a Soviet poor man's copy was probably on drawing boards somewhere.

Hitler's Table Talk: The Definitive Account

By the conclusion, you start to get the clear picture, as did Nilsson, that a lot of what went wrong had to do with what one single con artist—the unrepentant Swiss Nazi banker François Genoud—did to manipulate decades of historians into doing his bidding by replicating and validating his own myths and fabrications. A single man behind it all; mostly invisible to the public, as his involvement was barely if ever even mentioned in historical treatments and third-party publications of the Table Talk, and thus all his devices and manipulations went unnoticed until Nilsson uncovered them all. I was among the first to signal this might be the case, as it was my article in GSR that exposed the first evidence of Genoud being the actual fraud behind it, when I uncovered how he doctored his own French translation, and that the English translation was based on that—for reasons I then did not know and could not explain; Nilsson uncovers the hidden truth: Genoud had forced by secret contract everyone involved in producing the English edition—publishers, translators, and its editor and endorser, the renowned Hitler historian Hugh Trevor-Roper—to only use his French as their base text. Nilsson explores various reasons why Genoud did that, though certainty may never be ours, as his motives Genoud took with him to the grave...along with the original manuscript, apparently—no version of which survives

Holofraud liars like Wog keep adding layer after layer to all the old Ehrenberg lies about the NSDAP. The entire garbage heap of propaganda created by Jews has to be completely discarded and ignored, especially including the holofraud and extending all the way to today's narrative propagated by the ADL, Bnai Brith, and every living lying Rabbi on the face of the planet.

This Myth-Busting Walk-Around Of The Soviet MiG-23 Flogger Fighter Is A Must-Watch

The very first Flogger fighters were introduced to service without their intended radar, or even medium-range air-to-air missiles, while the MiG-23ML was a much more modern proposition, with better handling and maneuverability thanks to a more powerful engine and lighter airframe. The avionics and weapons were updated, too.

In the four years that the MiG-23ML has been in his charge, Ward says he has not come across any pilot or maintainer that didn't "absolutely just love this airplane."

The MiG-23ML that we see in Florida still has its J-band radar installed. Known to NATO as High Lark 2, this operates across 10,000 to 20,000 megahertz and has a range of 53 miles, Ward says. It was actually a very respectable piece of kit for its time, with a look-down shoot-down capability to detect, track, and engage low-flying targets, and electronic counter-countermeasures to defeat enemy jamming. In Ward's words, it's "outstanding."

The "incredibly rugged" landing gear on the Flogger is seriously tough, enough to operate from rough and even unimproved airfields and to handle the demands of operating with up to 6,700 pounds of ordnance hanging from the jet. Brakes on all three wheels allow "very short landings," aided by a braking parachute in the tail, and the ingenious way the undercarriage deploys and retracts through a process of hydraulic rotation is something worth looking at in itself — as in the video below.

No, the intake design wasn't stolen from the F-4

Ward also takes on another Western fallacy about the MiG-23, which supposes that the designers at Mikoyan-Gurevich took the engine intake design from the F-4 Phantom II and used it on the Flogger. Not true, says Ward, who points out that, while the form and function are similar, the MiG-23 has a completely different intake with different dimensions.

The cleverly engineered intake serves to manage the turbulent boundary layer airflow over the airframe, with a splitter plate and variable ramps in the intake ensuring the airflow is decelerated to subsonic speed before feeding the engine, preventing unstable supersonic air from slamming into the engine and maintaining efficiency.

OMG wouldn't that ever be a helpful turn of events. But more likely, Israel is gonna try to play one side against the other and pretend to be friends (as well as pretend to be enemies) with both, as the circumstance dictates (more or less in keeping with the general Jewish gestalt of crypsis – 'I am in charge of all accurate descriptions of Jewdom, I say what a Jew is and sometimes we feature it like the Jew is you hahahaha! ... hahahaha!, hahahahahaha!!!').

But I think you are right, in the sense that we will know that the American empire has fallen apart when Israel begins to do this just this (play sides bigtime).

I dunno, despite all the Jews' positive traits, this negative aspect is so bad, ... it really does therefore amount to 'a chronic parasitic infection'. And it appears that it is Jewish leadership that is mainly responsible for this. Regular Jews should be profoundly disturbed by what the Jewish leadership does, yet in the main, doesn't seem to be concerned at all.

If the whole Jewish gig in the west, is about crypsis ... well ... pretty sure crypsis is a trait required for parasitism, and then the rest of the shoe fits. It will be interesting to see how the newly expanded BRICS responds to any Israeli overtures. It would be much better if the whole world dealt with the JQ, collectively, actually, that is how bad it is. And the sad part is, regular Jews tend to have such positive traits (like intelligence), that in no way shape or form, does it have to be this way (they instead could be stellar members of the true-west collective, for instance, if they wanted to go that way). Sad, sad, sad.

Touche on the intake design, I confess to never seriously investigating it. I'm guilty of believing info that's in line with my pre-conceived notions.

BUT

The -ML was never exported, and in the Cold War it was the client states who dictated the expansion or the prestige of that entire half-world faction. What was in the sky against the Israelis, Iranians, South Africans, etc. was simply not up to the task.

Comparing the final MiG-23 to its original competition is a non-starter and is using an historical revisionist time machine to erase a decade that included the F-15's dominance over Lebanese skies, and the only MiG-23 feats of note including Cubans defecting to Florida by flying under the radar.

Unz is a limited hangout specialist, everything he writes is intricately manicured in such a way as to be half inconvenient truths (inconvenient for the Jew) which are no longer reasonably deniable from the perspective of lucid, coherent truth-seeking, and half distractive, obtuse tangential bullcrap inserted for the purpose of either distracting dumb but incredulous goyim from the remainder of the truth, or for planting seeds of conflict in truth-bearing narratives using the Cass Sunstein MindWar doctrine of “cognitive infiltration,” even going so far as to mention the Sunstein tactic in discussions on this website in order to muddy waters and accuse good-faith interlocutors of disinformation-peddling. He does it on purpose, he is constantly creating these narrative schisms with the intent of slowing down dumb goyim noticing what the Jew is up to in anticipation of the imminent eschaton which international Jewry is working assiduously to force upon humanity via WW3.

Just last week extremely harsh sentences were imposed upon several additional January 6th Trumpist protesters, including those whose crimes hardly seemed to exceed trespassing or petty vandalism.

The Biden administration and its allies feel that in order to burnish their legitimacy, totally anathematizing those pro-Trump protestors as dangerous seditionists is absolutely necessary. With all the media coverage of those protestors, there is very little attention given to the major corruption of the current regime.

I would love to know how Trump's impeachable interactions with Zelensky, Gordon Sondland, and Alexander Vindman regarding Hunter Biden's activities in Ukraine intersected with the subsequent Hunter Biden laptop story and the Nord Stream pipeline bombings. The Ukrainian government must have been irritated with Trump for not being sufficiently supportive of Ukraine and not being eager to go to war with Russia, and surely wanted him out of office. Hunter was deeply involved with a Ukrainian natural gas company, his activities were hidden from the public when his father was on the ballot, and then later on Russia's European natural gas pipelines were destroyed on his father's watch.

There is a lot there, and the media would rather focus on minor damage to the Capitol committed by Trump fans two and a half years ago.

“Nancy Pelosi and Diane Feinstein, conspicuously afflicted by dementia, have refused to go quietly”

Feinstein is well past the stage whereby she is determining whether to stay or to go. Her handlers, and they are numerous, are making that decision. Chuck Schumer is definitely involved as well as her Chief of Staff who faces loss of a prominent position.

This situation reminds me of a comical episode when the Illinois Governor had a Senate appointment in his grimy hands when Obama was elected President. At that point Blagojevich was already being wire tapped by the Feds. As might be expected, he was getting a lot of phone calls from Illinoisians who wanted to make sure Blago knew that they were ready to sacrifice themselves to nobly serve their country. One of the groveling recorded calls came from 3rd generation billionaire and current Governor Pritzger. At that point Blagojevich blurted out to one of his aids (recorded) “this appointment thing is f...ing” Golden”.

Its still Golden in today’s market.

FDR promised the Soviets half of Germany in 1940. Not as a gift to his beloved comrade Stalin. But to exterminate the German genotype, and replace it with the “homo sovieticus” manufactured apes. Stalin took the bait in a very predictable “wow” moment. But the “Gott mit uns” talisman saved the Germans from sure eradication.

The same trick is planned now on China. They will be promised half of Russia. Not as a gift, but to exterminate the Russian genotype, and get it replaced with the “homo masturbatus” manufactured apes. Only an idiot would assume that the Chinese are that stupid.

If neither WW1, nor the WW2 worked for you, then why would you want to presume that WW3 is going to be any different?

Off your meds, again, are you Top Level? You quote a propaganda hit-piece from the Guardian sewer, by one of it more ancient agit-proppers, one who must have happily sold out when the shit-rag went full Western supremacist, doing a smear job on a candidate who dares to be opposed to the globalist agenda.

And who does not wish to fervently support a fascist puppet regime in The Ukraine. A sort pf pre-emptive regime avoidance, rather than regime change, operation. All to 'refute' Western propganda ubiquity. It does NOT compute.

The current Slovakian incumbent is yet another she-male, Stepfordesque WEF clone, a real PILF (they don't select uncomely feminazis, that's for sure-bad for the advertising, I suppose)which once worked for the Soros 'Open Society' apparatus. Quel surprise!

Otherwise, Top Level, I found a delicious quotation that immediately put me in mind of you. It was in a letter from Martha Gellhorn to Lady Joan Zuckerman, on the occasion of her husband, Solly's, death in 2003, at 88.

'As he grew old, his vanity was touching, as if he didn't really know his own unique value and he had to reassure himself with the names of all the important people he was seeing, when he was far more unusual and brainier than any of them.'

At least you are discreet enough not to drop names when recounting your innumerable interactions with the 'elites' you mingle with, as if to the manor born.

What are you suggesting? The little “emperor” of Ukraine – appointed by the criminal interference of Washington morons – disbanded parliament, political parties, and independent media. Escape from Ukraine was the only avenue left to express their opposition to the UkiNazi regime.

However, the degree of freedom of speech in the comments section belies this assertion. Now it could be that this one outlet of free speech, outside of Gab, is deliberately set up so that all dissenters can be funneled into UR comments and scraped, monitored, doxxed and prepared for cancellation.

Does anyone plausibly deny that Bormann and his subordinates did actually compile records of Hitler's table talk? What stands out as the most likely fraudulently manufactured parts of what now pears to be the best text? Are there gotcha passages where it could be said with certainty that Hitler was not at the place alleged on the day of the supposed table talk or that the people supposed to be present weren't?

Couldn't such a diverse block, reliant on key members bearing potential differences, e.g. China and India, be unwieldy and thereby weaker than its size would indicate? For example, what would happen in a system where unit of account is based on the currencies of 5 of its leading members if one member was to leave?

Maybe the world get splits into two roughly equal sized trading blocs for a couple generations.

OTOH, the larger the block, the more attractive it becomes. If BRICS++ is really implemented with over 50% of GDP, we might be at the tipping point where a key American ally defects.

Overnight China becomes the new world leader.

And Jinky Joe & Dashing Don are youthful political figures compared to some of the preferred political pundits cited in this breezy article. Seymour Hersh is 86, Ray McGovern is 84, Michael Hudson is 84; Douglas MacGregor is ‘only’ 70; John Mearsheimer is 76 this year; even Roger Cohen at 68 is older than Andropov was. So if this is about ‘gerentocracy’, it cuts both ways.

Sure, that’s a fair point. But those other individuals still seem very sharp and thoughtful, and they stand on the analysis provided in their own current writings and public interviews. If they merely seemed to be mouthing slogans or reading the words penned by others, neither I nor anyone else would pay much attention to them.

Soviet leaders were political leaders of a nuclear armed superpower.

Biden is the putative political leader of a nuclear superpower.

Hersh, et. al. cannot possibly start any wars, including a global nuclear war: on the other hand demented Biden is the Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces of US. For example, he is the one* who sends ~$120 billion to Ukraine, and keeps goading Russia & Putin. All those 'pundits' can do is bloviate: they are no danger to anyone.

Biden — and whoever is manipulating him — can get us all killed.

Umerov does resemble a Khazarian chimp rather than a Mongol-like Tatar.

Seeing him sitting next to my apelike fellow Mobile, AL native, Lloyd Austin,

I thought I had stumbled onto an African Zoology site, but it was the web page of The American Embassy in Ukraine.

Austin skillfully parlayed his military career into an extremely profitable

Board position at Raytheon, picking up at least four million for arduous labor on behalf of a standout member of the MIC, while also receiving a handsome retirement pension from the Army

And, the General has carefully selected his personal friends, who included his investment pal Tony Blinken and his military buddy, the late Beau Biden.

Proving that he has a hound dog's nose for sniffing out the real overseers of all things political and financial, Austin has been a faithful stooge for AIPAC.

Is it not peculiarly coincidental how the cloaks of our military misadventures have been woven of financial fabric.

And once the story was finally published in the pages of the New York Post, America's oldest newspaper, all links to the Post article and its website were suddenly banned by Twitter, Facebook, and other social media outlets to ensure that the voters remained ignorant until after they had cast their ballots.

That was truly unacceptable, I suspect. I understand media companies' unwillingness to cover a story that they think could help a candidate whom they consider to be an existential threat, especially right before an election (if, purely hypothetically, media companies considered Al Gore to be an existential threat before the 2000 election, for instance, I suspect that they would be justified in not covering Bush's DUI story until after the 2000 election), but I think that they should also allow other media companies to make a different calculation in regards to this.

Thanks for your thoughts, Ron. What I find interesting is that IIRC, in his second book, Hitler lamented the loss of millions of Germans in the past due to emigration (such as to the US) and apparently felt that having more living space for Germany would solve this problem. Of course, what Hitler neglected to mention is that Germany's TFR was already much lower than it previously was.

Hitler also discussed Kalergi's European Union idea in his second book and dismissed it as an alternative to Lebensraum to due Hitler perceiving some European peoples to be racially unfit to be put in the same country as Germany or something like that.

I can provide the necessary quotes for you, if necessary.

In the article Mr. Unz writes:

These historical echoes between our own political decline and that of our vanished superpower rival of the Cold War [the USSR] are obviously disturbing. But there are also other important differences, and some of these are not necessarily to the advantage of our own situation.

The USSR of the late Soviet era was a sleepy place, whose cautious and conservative leaders were content to tread water even as their mighty empire gradually rusted away. I despised it at the time and certainly hoped and expected that it would eventually collapse, but I never feared its elderly leaders might provoke a world war in their dotage.

In sharp contrast, the exceptionally reckless and aggressive Neocons have gained complete mastery over the political and media levers that control both our political parties, and therefore they easily pull the strings of the elected officials who nominally govern us.

These differences are perhaps interesting to explore further. In the USSR at the time there was lack of ideological conviction to continue the USSR. Looking west the grass looked greener in many ways and the old communist slogans had hollow ring to them. It was increasingly difficult to defend the USSR economic system with west European middle class having dishwashers and driving a Volvo. Instead of ideological conviction the USSR was closer to having ideological crisis. The U.S. doesn't have this problem, the official rhetoric and it seems public opinion in the 'west' in general indicates we are on the right course, even the only possible course. So the U.S. elites have ideological conviction to continue and 'preserve' status quo.

But there are other elements driving policy, like financial incentives of the elite. In the USSR, if I understand correctly, most of the economy was state owned. Sure, party members and perhaps others lined their pockets and skimmed considerable wealth off the system and higher ranking figures perhaps had two houses and a small car collection. All in all, I think this was still somewhat limited. Party members had to tow the party line and they probably kept an eye on each other. Someone going too far in enriching himself probably became a target. And after all this had to be limited because it was totally out of line with the USSR concept of equality. Sure, for party members this was no doubt comfortable system but I bet many of them didn't worry too much about change to the western model that could bring even more opportunities.

If we look at financial incentives for the U.S. or western elites the picture is very different. In the USSR the military defense apparatus was state owned with zero private companies contributing. In the U.S. today we have ~ $one trillion 'defense' budget – amount the size of the GDP of the Netherlands, or the GDP of Denmark and Norway combined! – with much of the money flowing to private contractors and companies, no doubt owned in part the the 'elite'. This is just one example of many why the U.S. elites have huge financial incentives to continue status quo. Contrast this with the USSR system with just party members skimming cup change off the defense budget or the totally boring USSR banking system vs. Wall Street!

The way I see it, there are certainly some similarities between the last years of the USSR and the current U.S. situation like Mr. Unz points out. Both had 'sleepy' high ranking politicians doing more of the same. The difference is the driving force behind them, in the USSR it lacked ideological conviction and substantial financial incentives. In the U.S. there is no shortage of both and it won't go quietly into the night like the USSR did. It's a powder keg and we are already seeing it in Ukraine and the U.S. policy towards China.

I still think that the Ukie and Russian Oligarchs had a different plan on how to keep Ukraine together and still keep Crimea in Their hands but the Neocon Jews in E U and Washington had a different , more war mongering type plan and they overruled the Local Oligarchs and took over Kiev. I think this fight between the Oligarchs is still going on. Talk about some stupid greedy assholes – the Jews have em too. It is Brezhnev's unhappy fate to be remembered for his eyebrows, his medals and his failure to master the Afghan Misstep, a "dance of death" originated by Alexander, done "bloody wrong" by the British and perfected to a disastrous climax by the Americans. To their credit, the Chinese and Russians now have opted for a waltz of friendly persuasion which may enable them to extract Afghanistan's mineral wealth in return for economic aid.

Those who arrogantly ignore history will be forcefully taught by experience. Delusions of omnipotence have yet to win a single war, but we will keep on trying, at least until we run out of Ukrainians. "Rivers of Blood" will not deter us since it's not our blood.

Jeffrey Sachs spends most of the interview discussing events from the fall of the USSR to today without once mentioning, let alone naming, the Jew. Of course this would be expected. We see the same thing happen here on UR whenever Ron Unz talks about Neocons.

Sachs describes how Neocons under Bush pushed Nato east, and Sachs describes how Neocons under Obama pulled off the Maidan “Orange” revolution with McCain and Nuland travelling to Kiev in 2014. But Sachs never explains why it is that these Neocons seem to be able to transmogrify from Democrat to Republican and back again in the world of hyper-partisan US politics and continually stolen and contested elections.

To Sachs, it just one of those unexplainable things hyper-bellicose Jews, who wrap themselves with the US flag but unashamedly put Israeli and Jewish interest above those of the US, can hover above goy politics without ever being named for what they are.

Perhaps he went into detail about Heavenly Jerusalem? What about the Holohoax, did he mention that even Jews are too ashamed to stick to their own definition of denial of 6 million gassed Jews is "holocaust denial"? 9/11 and the dancing Jews? The terrorist bombing of the King David Hotel?

I am pretty certain that all of the above are a "No". So tell me, what revelations did Sachs have about Israel?

Yawn. Wake me up when he gets into the millions of Russians sent to the Gulags and millions of Ukrainians starved to death in the Holodomor that the Judeo-Bolsheviks genocided from 1923 until 1991, when Sachs took over the genocide of Russian slavs...

The massacre of Palestinians and the theft of their land is a very limited hangout for communist US Jews opposed to Netanyahu and his Zionist terrorists racial supremacists.

In my mind Sachs is roughly the equivalent to Kissinger (King of the geriatric Jewish super-mensch). Jewish media put them in the spotlight when what they are saying is “good for the Jews”. Otherwise they are kept in the shadows until needed again.

I come from European roots. I wish Palestinians good luck in their defense against Israel. I sincerely doubt that Palestinians bat an eye to the mass immigration of Arabs and Negroes being forced on Europe. In fact, many Palestinians would gladly escape to Europe if they could and be participants in the Jewish incited invasion, and in this sense are a part of the problem because they are being used by the Jews as bullets against European civilization just like Syrians, Iraqis, Afghanistans, Moroccans, Sudanese, Nigerians and the entire refuse of the continent of Africa.

So Sachs gets into Locke, and tries to shame Europeans who settled and tamed the US by comparing them to Jews in Palestine. Paint me unimpressed and even more disgusted with the typically Jewish tall tale spinner Sachs. It is just Jewish deflection, because they played a major, if not THE major, role in the mistreatment of the American natives.

Rashid gives credence to the holofraud and implies that Jewish treatment of Palestinians could be justified because of “muh holocaust”. Meanwhile “Professor” Sachs pretends to be ignorant of what Jews did to Palestinians.

I have no idea what ethnic roots you have Robin, but I am beginning to think that you are either some kind of half breed or you are a typical female virtue signaling European. Whatever the case, you seem to be obsessed with the Palestinians yet you turn a cold shoulder to the genocide of Germany and Europe. Both were victims of the Jews.

Wake me up when Sachs covers the Morgentau plan and the firebombing of Germany. Or even the genocide of Russia and Ukraine. In fact, you can wake me up when Khalidi does the same.

Jeff Sachs is an Establishment Jew but a renegade from that “group” in many respects, making him hard to classify, When people label him a “limited hangout” they might consider the difficulties inherent in maintaining such a confusing position.

Juggling a variety of positions to conceal one’s true intent presents an impossible challenge. I doubt that anyone has the emotional and intellectual capacity to conceal the contradictions that level of deceit would entail. Sachs has reportedly received financial support from Soros for his anti-poverty projects, but it seems unlikely that Soros would agree with his positions on Ukraine, China, Covid and financial regulation.

As a general rule it makes sense to assume that a person is sincere until there is solid proof that he’s not.

«These individuals were protesting an extremely close Presidential election that had obviously been stolen from incumbent Donald Trump»

In the books “Perpetual war for perpetual peace” (2014) and “History of the national security state” (2002) Gore Vidal makes some good arguments that the 2000 and 2004 elections were stolen, and also thinks that all subsequent elections have been “managed”. It is pretty strange that few R people point out that in 2020 “amazingly” during an epidemic and a recession Biden got 20% more votes than “President” Rodham-Clinton, and Trump got 18% more than in 2016, and those are just national averages, in some cases votes surged “miraculously” by 60%.

That is just the extension to the federal level of a common practice at the town and country levels, where local political machines have been “managing” elections in many parts of the USA.

One of the fatal issues with USA politics is that federal elections are run by the same local political machines, and eventually they started “managing” federal elections too. The problem is both dire and less important than it seems: it is dire because so many places are heavily D or R that their respective political machines can do whatever they want, and precisely because of those being heavily D or R, under first-past-the-post all they do is to increase their margin of victory. But in those places matters is not whether the R or D win, because that’s known in advance, but which R or D faction prevails over the others for control of the local machine,

«Hitler lamented the loss of millions of Germans in the past due to emigration (such as to the US) and apparently felt that having more living space for Germany would solve this problem.»

Viciously planned and executed the “eastern lebensraum” idea had a very rational basis and was not about emigration: in WW1 the german empire was under siege and starved into surrender by the UK-USA blockade, because it did not have enough land to be self-sufficient in cereals (and oil at the time mattered a lot less). The “lebensraum” idea was simply to have germans conquer so much land to be self-sufficient in cereals.

A previous commenter some time ago pointed out that improvements in the Haber process to make ammonia fertilizer would have allowed the German Empire to become self-sufficient in cereals without any more land, but that requires fuels in which the German Empire would still be dependent on imports and thus be vulnerable to blockades. Currently very few developed countries are self-sufficient in both cereals and fuels, notably the USA and the RF.

«Couldn't such a diverse block, reliant on key members bearing potential differences, e.g. China and India, be unwieldy and thereby weaker than its size would indicate?»

There are currently a lot of people who hallucinate about the “BRICS” and “multipolarity”, as if the “BRICS” were anything more than a dinner club/talking shop, certainly not a trading block like the EU or a military alliance like NATO or even a fake collective security organisation like the United Nations.

There is no tendency to multipolarity: the USA plan is transparently to bring back the Cold War arrangement of bipolarity, where the USA dominate the much bigger “first world”, the PRC (rather than the USSR as in past) dominates a much smaller “second world”, and the “third world” pretends to be an “unaligned movement” but is really made of USA protectorates that the USA don't care much about.

Things will be quite different when the BRICS Navy controls many important sea lanes, or the BRICS political police can regime change as many governments as the CIA, etc., but that is quite far away.

It is just USA against the PRC, with most governments being USA vassals or leaning USA (except RF, Korea-north, Iran ,...) but eager to get some payola from the PRC too if they can get away with it.

Good points.

I want to point out reoccurring theme I see over and over again when main stream public figures come out and say something that's way out of line with the official narrative; they are frequently criticized for not saying enough or going far enough by people who otherwise agree with their message. And since they didn't go far enough they are probably limited hangout or have hidden agenda....

I commented on Mike Whitney's article last February:

<https://www.unz.com/mwhitney/correction-what-hersh-got-right-and-i-got-wrong/#comment-5816836>

<https://www.unz.com/mwhitney/correction-what-hersh-got-right-and-i-got-wrong/#comment-5816836>

When I read Hersh article I noticed some of the things you criticized Mr. Whitney. But I figured he was being careful with his point of view in all of this.

Judging by my casual reading of the MSM past year and general feeling, it seems to me the U.S. (NATO) media organs have totally conquered the narrative in the west and managed to paint extremely negative picture of the Russian side in this conflict, and have spent much effort doing so. Resulting in very negative sentiment's towards Russia and it's leadership among the public and talking heads in the west.

Mr. Hersh is delivering a bombshell 'red pill' into this party. The main-stream audience, while perhaps not hostile to the idea the U.S. was involved in blowing up N.S. – is very sensitive to anything that looks like pro-Russian views. So he could be shoehorning his big red pill into the brains of his readers while not setting off their bomb detectors – as being sympathetic to the Russian cause. And in this delivery the cargo hold is full and no room of anything extra. So he is towing the party line on other issues, at least for now.

Writing the same article for more 'red-pilled' audience (like here) is different and perhaps less care needed to polish the views. Some articles aimed at the mainstream get harsh treatment in comments on alt-sites for all kind of issues commenters are not happy with, mainly because of this, they were perhaps not the intended audience the article was aimed at to begin with.

I think this also applies to Mr Sachs or could apply to him. Of course I have no idea if he considers some Jewish angle relevant or not.

I think some commenters here don't realize how different their worldview is from the mainstream. I don't consider myself mainstream having spent considerable time on anonymous political forums for the past 25 years. However I realized when I discovered the U.R. some years ago I was after all pretty close to the mainstream. Bare with me, this is a bit long.

Having spent few months here I came across a comment about a report filed by the ADL to the Icelandic parliament in 2018. The issue at hand was a bill, a proposal to ban circumcision on boys in Iceland.

At the time I was aware of the bill and casually noticed some discussion about it on local forums and our media. It was stuck or had just faded out of the spotlight allegedly under consideration by the parliament. The sponsors of the bill were few middle ground politicians who considered circumcision cruel and there were no 'strings attached' as to drive out muslims or jews. All the discussion was more or less very unexciting and casual.

I got curious and dug up the report from ADL Here is a link to the report on the Icelandic parliament website:

<https://www.althingi.is/altext/erindi/148/148-787.pdf>

Let me quote interesting part of it:

The Anti-Defamation League is the leading monitor of far-right extremism and foremost expert in the United States. Should Iceland ban male circumcision, making it impossible for Jews and Muslims to raise families in your country, we guarantee that Iceland will be celebrated by neo-Nazis, white supremacists, and other extremists. Even though anti-Semitism was surely not the impetus for the proposal, the result of its adoption will be the glorification of Iceland by the most despicable bigots. They will celebrate the ban as the first legislation in Europe since World War II towards making a country Judenrein, free of Jews.

ADL has studied the pervasiveness of anti-Semitic content on social media, and we know that a relatively small number of extremists are able to amplify their message quickly and broadly through social media. ADL regularly reports on such phenomena, and we will report on extremist praise for Iceland.

So far so good but here comes the interesting part:

We urge you to consider the significant media attention, in the U.S, and internationally, paid to ADL reports on extremism. In the past six months alone, our research and experts have been featured on CNN and other cable TV channels, NBC and other broadcast TV, on 60 Minutes, the most watched TV news magazine in America, and in leading newspapers, including The New York Times and The Washington Post. Given that 28% of Iceland's tourists came from North America in 2016, Iceland's standing in the U.S. should be of great concern from an economic perspective, We are confident that the vast majority of American tourists will avoid a country whose reputation is associated with Nazism, even if that association is not justified.

Seriously, I could hardly believe what I was reading. Few weeks before I stumbled on some news report about 'racism' in my local media, where some local University researcher was discussing her paper quoting the ADL as major authority on the subject, and here the same ADL was threatening the Icelandic parliament to paint Iceland as racist, white supremacists nation and destroy our tourist industry!

This was all new to me and I wrote a piece on local forums explaining what had happened and suggested this was the reason the bill had just faded away. The response – silence. I have never seen this ADL report mentioned in my media or anywhere else in the Icelandic language zone. And I don't know what members of parliament thought when they read this. I suspect less than 50 Icelanders know and understood what happened out of population of ~400k currently. The number could easily be 20 or less.

Let me try to rephrase this – I had to go to the Unz Review to figure out what happened to legal bill proposal in my own country! And it was pure coincidence I did, if not for the U.R. comment I would be clueless.

Now imagine if I would write article and send it as opinion piece to one of my local newspapers claiming the ‘Jews’ or the ‘zog’ are driving U.S. foreign policy. My fellow countrymen would put me into the flat-earth camp right away and pay zero attention to my ramblings. Chances are I would get a visit by a social worker to figure out if I was OK. The reason is my claims would be way too far off their worldview.

This is the Icelandic ‘main stream’. I don’t really know but I think the European situation may be similar, can’t comment on the U.S. situation.

Authors like Seymour Hersh and Jeffery Sachs et.al are trying to pierce this main-stream bubble. It’s extremely difficult task to package controversial message so it will get delivered without triggering the proverbial immune system that will destroy it. If they wander too far off the reservation they will trigger one of the big landmines and be destroyed. So the delivery has to be very careful and the message finely honed to the task at hand. Surgical so to speak on highly controversial issues. They want to counter the official narrative on the Ukrainian war and U.S. foreign policy. That’s Herculean task and no room for extras.

As it happens we have here on the U.R. very fine example of targeted delivery method by our host Mr. Unz when publishing his take on highly controversial issues. Notice his first article in the American Pravda series, it begins slowly on perhaps not so controversial issues. Then he slowly but surely moves into more controversial issues in his next articles, each article explaining how he came from the main stream (like his targeted readers) moved by new (to him) evidence and reaching surprising conclusions about historical issues. Many commenters have misunderstood he is aiming for the main steam and harassed him for nativity in his early years. Boiling living frogs you start using cold water so they don't get spooked and jump out of the pot.

Niceland has written a very “nice” explanation for why Sachs and Hersch and yourself avoid “lightning rod” issues about Jewish Power.

The problem here is that you have confirmed that there is so much truth in these issues that they cannot be touched, yet you close up your comment by stating:

| often provoke ridicule from some of the more conspiratorial commenters

You have contradicted yourself. Lying power Jews like Greenblatt and Soros have deliberately warped and perverted our language in malicious ways and turned it into a weapon that they wield against us. The word “conspiracy” would be a case in point.

A “conspiracy” has to occur behind a veil of secrecy, otherwise it will be exposed and fall within the group that Niceland describes as:

| “My fellow countrymen would put me into the flat-earth camp right away and pay zero attention to my ramblings.”

Clearly big Tech and big Media work hand in hand to provide that veil of secrecy and to wield that bludgeon of censorship. Just be reviewing what items are taboo, such as the holofraud, we can be certain that it is Jews who are the ones who are “conspiring”.

So at a minimum, if Sachs was just trying to gradually open the Overton window, he would now be railing on about what the ADL is doing to Musk and “X”. So far all I hear is crickets.

I will add the you, Mr. Unz, have run a series of articles about the struggle between the ADL and “X”. For that I am grateful and I give you my respect. I do not think the same applies to Jeffery Sachs.

I followed the Jewish circumcision assault on Iceland closely in 2018 (IIRC). A guy named Curse had a few long threads on Twitter about it. I managed to find one of them in thethreaderapp, unfortunately all the images and links to articles have been stripped out.

<https://staging.threadreaderapp.com/thread/1010591892940120065.html>

A short excerpt:

“9. So after the circumcision bill was presented in February, Chabad Rabbi Avi Feldman, 27, of Brooklyn, NY, moved to Iceland with his daughters and wife “to bring awareness of the relevance and importance of brit milah (circumcision).”

10. Rabbi Feldman’s Judaic rituals quickly proved incongruent with Icelandic lifestyle when the Rabbi was forced to explain to an Icelander why he couldn’t eat from utensils that were touched by a goy (goyim are considered goats per the Talmud & anything goyim touch is un-kosher)

11. Mike Levin, a Jew who moved to Iceland from Chicago, hopes the presence of Feldman, Iceland’s first Rabbi, will encourage state funding for Jewish causes within Iceland. That’s right, chiseling tax dollars from native Icelanders to fund Jewry like their new proposed Synagogue

12. So how did Jews pressure Iceland to scrap the bill that would ban circumcision? Per Rabbi Pinchas Goldschmidt:

- a) pressure from Jewish groups
- b) build coalitions with other faith groups
- c) “appeal” to international economic & political interests

But it was mostly (c)

13. Pressure for scrapping the bill came by way of World Jewish Congress, Agudath Israel of America, the National Coalition Supporting Eurasian Jewry, & Orthodox Union – the org that charges US food manufacturers to certify half of all of US food products as fit for Jews (kosher)

14. The pressure came in the form of protests and a conference in Reykjavik, Iceland’s capital city, where Rabbis flew in from parts of Europe to speak with members of parliament (MPs) in Iceland.

15. The second approach Jews used to thwart the bill was building coalitions with Muslim & Catholic groups like the Catholic Church of the EU, Islamic Cultural Center of Iceland, and the Catholic Church of Iceland. Catholics only represent 4% of Iceland’s population, Muslims 0.3%

16. But what was most effective in scrapping the bill was Orthodox Union enlisting the help of a Jew who sits in US Congress – Eliot Engel of N.Y. – to personally pen a letter of warning to Iceland’s Ambassador, alluding to the bill jeopardizing Iceland’s relationship with the US ”

The ADL must be vigilant to maintain its self-designated role as “Defender of the Faith,” borrowing from the British Monarch. In the Iceland case their aim was not simply to make sure that Jews had “no skin in the game,” but also to show off their reach, even to the ends of the earth. Donors were impressed? All ten Jews in Iceland were embarrassed.

Returning to your previous post, Professor Sachs does have a talent for attracting snipes from all directions, but bear in mind the simple truth that no decent man wants to alienate family, friends and colleagues. But, someone with expertise in a particular area does have a social responsibility to publicly express his opinions, even if he anticipates harsh criticism or ridicule from people he respects.

Limited or unlimited hangout, Sachs could never appease the genomic Jew-haters, the rabid Muslim-hating Israeli settlers on the West Bank, the warmongers in the U.S. Government or the COVID fanatics led by the charismatic Dr. Fauci.
